'Ah, Spring... You Wonderful Thing!'

Hanne Andersen, 2175 Lansdowne, is convinced spring has come to Victoria. Noon temperatures today hovered close to 50 with more of the same forecast.

Less balmy were sister cities of Winnipeg (25 below) Toronto (zero) London, Ont. (blizzard.)

UN May Hold Session Monday To Deal With Formosa Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Diplomatic sources said today the Security Council may be called into session next Monday to consider possible United Nations action to arrange a cease-fire in the China fighting.

NEW DELHI, India (UP) — Red China's Ambassador to India called on Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today, prompting speculation that India is playing a key role in efforts to obtain a cease-fire in the danger-packed Formosa Strait.

Observers here were convinced India was being called upon to perform the sort of go-between duties she handled successfully in ending the Korean and Indo-Chinese fighting.

It was believed Chinese Ambassador Yuan Chung Hsien discussed with Nehru the latest developments involving Formosa.

Tomorrow Nehru will leave for London and the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference. A top item on the agenda of that meeting will be the Formosan crisis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Eisenhower would decide personally whether to use U.S. forces for purposes other than immediate self defense in protection of Formosa against the Communists.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in a statement that Eisenhower had made that clear at a conference with civilian and military defense officials.

The statement said that at the White House conference today:

"The president made it clear that these U.S. forces were designed purely for defensive purposes and that any decision to use United States forces other than in immediate self defense or in direct defense of Formosa and the Pescadores would be a decision which he would take and the responsibility for which he has not delegated."

WOULDN'T DELEGATE

This means that only Eisenhower himself could authorize such a step, for instance, as the bombing of Chinese Communist troops and supplies on the mainland or troop transports in Red harbors.

Earlier, Senator William Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said Eisenhower does not believe his Formosa resolution carries authorization to wage preventive war. (See also page 9.)

NO PAY BOOST FOR MLAs BENNETT INDICATES

B.C.'s MLAs will have to do without a pay increase for this session at least, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

The premier told his press conference this morning he feels "poor people, those on low incomes, and the unemployed should have first call on purchasing power."

"The members all accepted their positions by choice," he said, "and at election time there always seems to be plenty of candidates for these positions."

MLAs circulated a petition suggesting a pay boost at the last session of the House, but nothing came of it.

PEARSON TO LONDON FOR FAR EAST TALKS

OTTAWA (BUP) — External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson will accompany Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London next week. Mr. St. Laurent told the Commons today.

Mr. St. Laurent said Pearson had agreed to go with him because a large part of the commonwealth meeting probably would be centered on the Far Eastern situation, which the prime minister described as "quite grave at the moment."

LONDON (Reuters) — A plan to stop the Formosa fighting on a long-term truce—giving Communist China the offshore islands now held by the Nationalists in return for a pledge to leave Chiang Kai-shek the Pescadores and Formosa—was under urgent study here today between Britain and New Zealand, diplomatic observers said.

75 U.S. Jets Stiffen Formosa Defense Force

Additional Naval Units Speed Northwest To Bolster 7th Fleet's Red China Protests

TAIPEH, Formosa, (UP) — A full wing of 75 U.S. Sabrejet fighters arrived here today and more naval units were reported steaming northward to reinforce the powerful 7th Fleet for the defense of this Chinese Nationalist stronghold.

The U.S. ships and planes also would be available to help possible evacuation of Nationalist forces from the invasion-threatened Tachen Islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

Military observers here saw the movement of American air strength as a firm warning to Red China that the United States was dead set on carrying out a successful evacuation of the Tachens when the final orders come from Washington.

These observers said the United States was bringing such powerful military forces to bear in the Formosa area that Red China might be "persuaded" to stand aside and allow the peaceful evacuation of the 30,000 Nationalists in the Tachens.

Peiping radio, the voice of Red China, warned that the Red regime "will never be intimidated" but "will carry on their efforts to liberate Formosa and wipe out the Chiang Kai-shek group of betrayers until they win a final victory."

Peiping particularly attacked the 7th Fleet's aerial activities and said "many carrier-based aircraft have been patrolling over the sea east of the Tachen Islands for the past few days." It called the action "provocative."

Wall Street Boy Wonder Murdered

Police Advance Robbery Motive

NEW YORK (CP) — Financier Serge Rubinstein, wizard of Wall Street who faced deportation as an undesirable alien, was found dead in his lavish Fifth Avenue mansion today, apparently the victim of a stranger.

An authoritative source said a cord had been twisted around the neck of the 46-year-old one-time boy wonder of the finance world. The body, bound and gagged and clad in costly black silk pajamas, was found face up in a third-floor bedroom of the marble and oak-paneled mansion, which has six floors and two elevators.

Tape two inches wide covered his mouth. Rubinstein, who for most of his adult life gaily boasted that he was a "man without a country," was convicted and jailed as a draft dodger in the Second World War.

POSSIBLY ROBBED Police mentioned robbery as a possible motive.

The room had been ransacked. All drawers in the dresser section of a built-in wardrobe had been pulled out. "The place was turned upside down," police said.

The body was found by a butler at 8:30 a.m. Rubinstein's hands and feet had been bound with heavy twine, apparently the cord from a Venetian blind.

The Russian-born Rubinstein had been in hot water with immigration authorities since 1938, when he illegally entered the United States from Canada on a Portuguese passport. The Portuguese government disowned the passport and after years of litigation the U.S. ordered him deported but the case ended up in the appeals court, where it was when he was killed.

At least five persons, including Rubinstein's mother and aunt, were in the house during the night. All were being questioned.

Gold Mines Subsidies To Continue

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to renew subsidies for Canada's gold mines for two years—1955 and 1956—under a modified formula which will reduce payments sharply.

The government gave notice on the Commons order paper today that it will ask Parliament to amend the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act to extend it to the year 1955 and 1956 "subject to certain modifications."

It was understood the modifications are aimed at reducing the government's outlays for subsidies which in 1954 totaled about $16,500,000.

An outline of the proposed modifications likely will be given in the Commons tonight by Mines Minister Prudham.

It was understood the modifications are aimed at reducing the government's outlays for subsidies which in 1954 totaled about $16,500,000.

Bible Students Help Navy Cadets In 1,000-Man Hunt for Lost Boy

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Although hope is fading, the RCMP today sent nearly 1,000 volunteers out for the sixth day to look for six-year-old Howard Newell, missing since Saturday.

Doctors said Wednesday there was little chance the boy survived more than one or two of the freezing nights.

Howard went into the wood on Saturday with a group of companions led by his uncle, but was not with them when they emerged at noon. He had planned to take a short cut to his home at Little River, 10 miles from here.

Estimates Due Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's estimate of expenditures for the 1955-56 fiscal year starting on April 1 will be announced Friday.

Finance Minister Harris will table the annual estimates in the Commons about 1:30 p.m.

Search Launched for Kitimat Power Break

Trouble Crews Battle Snow, Cold, Fog To Restore Electricity at Alcan Plant

Trouble crews, equipped with snow shoes and two-way radios, braved cruel, winter weather and thick fog today in an effort to track down the break in the 50-mile Kemano-Kitimat power line which has left the giant Aluminum Company of Canada's Kitimat plant without electricity.

It was understood crews were dispatched from both ends of the line, which stretches through the treacherous Kildaka Pass.

Although faced with the possibility of a two-week suspension in operations, George Vincent, company spokesman in Vancouver, told the Times this afternoon it was still too soon to know how serious the power break would be.

"These things happen," he said. "It may be just a trifle. Then again, it may be serious."

Kitimat has been without power for more than 24 hours. The flow of electricity failed a few minutes before noon Wednesday.

A helicopter was pressed into immediate service to track down the break but was forced to return to its base by heavy clouds.

Causing concern to company officials in Vancouver are the huge smelting pots where the metal is kept in molten state.

It is not known yet whether auxiliary power has been capable of keeping the pots hot. It is understood auxiliary equipment was not in operation until 7:30 Wednesday night.

If the pots are allowed to cool, the aluminum will harden and will have to be chipped out before production can resume. It is this chipping of the "frozen" metal that would cause a two-week production break.

Telegraph and telephone lines connecting Kitimat with Vancouver failed Wednesday. Service was restored this morning but calls were late going through.

The PGE construction committee announced late in 1954 that work on the first 65 miles of the northern extension, which will eventually carry the PGE from Prince George to Dawson Creek, will be under construction this spring.

The government will seek increased borrowing powers for the PGE at the current session of the legislature, to enable PGE extension work to "go ahead full blast," the premier said.

The premier also stated the federal government has not rejected his request for a 50-50 split on costs of the $10,000,000 southern extension.

"They haven't rejected our request, but there has been no action on it as yet," he said.

The river that cuts through the search area has been dragged since Sunday. Men from all stations of life in this area on the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia have turned out to search. Vagrants and professional men rub shoulders with laborers, farmers, fishermen and businessmen.

Sixty-one naval recruits from Cornwallis training base and students from Bethel Bible College are in search parties with laborers who gave up a day's pay to go along.

Here are some of the larger local firms who are on the list, with land value listed first, then improvements:

Woodwards Stores Ltd., $84,100, $132,400; Metropolitan Stores Ltd., $121,370, $173,040; Odeon Theatres, $31,350, $179,960; Brackman Ker Milling Co., $20,530, $33,520; B.C. Forest Products Ltd., $69,680, $772,400.

U.K. Ships Disappear In Icy Haze

HULL, England (AP) — Forty British seamen aboard two trawlers are feared lost off Iceland today, victims of the dread "black frost."

Twenty men were aboard each of the ships—the 810-ton Roderigo and the 559-ton Lorella—which sent out distress signals Wednesday night, saying they were heeling over in a hurricane and snowstorm.

For several minutes distress signals poured from the trawlers' radios. Then there was silence.

(United Press reported today that USAAF rescue planes failed to find trace of the trawlers in radar searches through zero visibility yesterday and today. UP also said a third Hull trawler, the 498-ton Rosella, also sent out an SOS but later radioed it had recovered sea-way.)

"Black frost" is the seaman's name for clouds of icy haze which skim along the surface and wrap ships in a cocoon of spray which freezes hard. Unless the crew can tack this ice away, its weight can turn a ship over.

COULDN'T ABANDON SHIP The Lorella, in her last message, said she was lying on her side off Iceland's North Cape.

The Roderigo signalled from 90 miles north of the cape: "Lifting heavily and going over."

A few minutes later came this last desperate message from the Roderigo: "Impossible abandon ship because of hurricane conditions and freezing temperatures."

Both vessels sailed from this northeast England fishing port, and anxious families of the seamen gathered at trawler headquarters to listen to messages from search ships.

Coast guardsmen here feared the seamen probably met instant death when the trawlers heeled over.

Trans-Atlantic Plane Jockey Does It Again

BELFAST, Ireland (UP) — Max Conrad, a 52-year-old flying Texan, left Newfoundland for Shannon, Ireland, Tuesday night in a two-engine Apache plane and landed at a British air force base five hours later and 200 miles off course because of a raging Arctic storm.

He plans to deliver the Apache to a customer in North Africa.

Conrad, a father of 10, has made four "flying flights" across the Atlantic in four years.

The aircraft firm finds it cheaper to hire Conrad to ferry the planes than to ship them by water.

'LIMEY LIZZIE' TOLD 'STAY OUT' BY SCOTS

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Unidentified persons plastered the words "Stay Out, Limey Lizzie" along a wall of the Queen's official Scottish home here during the night.

The words, in whitewash letters two feet high, stretched for 70 feet along a wall of historic Holyrood Palace.

Police believe extreme Scottish nationalists were responsible. The nationalists, who want home rule for Scotland, object to the Queen calling herself "Elizabeth the Second." They say she is only the first Elizabeth to rule over Scotland.

Ten Major Firms in City Appealing Assessments

A list released by city assessor Alfred Joyce shows that some of the area's biggest businesses will appear before the provincial court of revision next Tuesday to appeal assessments on city property.

Here are some of the larger local firms who are on the list, with land value listed first, then improvements:

Woodwards Stores Ltd., $84,100, $132,400; Metropolitan Stores Ltd., $121,370, $173,040; Odeon Theatres, $31,350, $179,960; Brackman Ker Milling Co., $20,530, $33,520; B.C. Forest Products Ltd., $69,680, $772,400.

Canada Plans Bigger Outlay For Defense?

(FROM CP AND BUP DISPATCHES)

External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated Wednesday Canada will cut its mutual aid program this year and divert the money into the continental defense build-up.

Canada has given $1,000,000 to its allies since 1950 under NATO's mutual aid program. The appropriation for the current fiscal year was $300,000,000.

Winding up debate on ratification of the Paris agreements for entry of a rearmend West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, he said:

"... With modern weapons and long-range aircraft, full-scale war today would be quite a different matter from that of the last world war when this continent was safe from attack. . . .

"Anything that makes less possible a knock-out attack on the main centres of western strength, which are on this continent, increases the deterrent and thereby, I suggest, diminishes the risk of aggression anywhere."

Quebec MP Takes Crack at Winch

A Quebec Liberal Wednesday accused a British Columbia CCF member of undermining national unity.

Charles Cannon, Iles-de-la-Madeleine, said Harold Winch, Vancouver East, was reported to have complained French-language members can all speak English but insist on speaking in their native language in the Commons.

Mr. Cannon, a bilingual Quebec City lawyer, speaking in French, quoted Mr. Winch as saying in Vancouver last September:

"I have yet to meet a French-Canadian MP who does not understand or speak English, yet this minority group insists on using French in the House. We English members have to wait 24 hours for a transcript to find out what they said."

"It is their God-given right to use the French tongue, but why do they insist on it when they know the majority of the members are English-speaking and can speak it themselves?"

Mr. Cannon, who translated into French the newspaper report of Mr. Winch's speech, said: "I believe it is my duty to protest with vehemence against what the honorable member said."

He described the reported statement as "a blow to the privilege of the French-Canadian minority of the House and the country."

Winch was in the House but did not comment.

A suggestion that the CBC and the national film board produce anti-Communist programs and films was made Wednesday.

Russell Reinke (L-Hamilton South) said some public funds could be spent "to bring to the attention of the Canadian people the purpose, effects and results of Communism."

These productions would remind Canadians to guard their freedoms.

"Freedom is like a bag of sand," he said. "If there is a hole anywhere in the bag, all the sand will run out."

CCF Party Split on Arms Vote

Wednesday's vote on admission of a rearmend West Germany to the NATO defense alliance met opposition only in CCF ranks.

Approved 213 to 12, the vote saw the 24-member group split three ways with 12 opposed, five approving, and five abstaining. Two CCF members were absent.

The agreements, which would make West Germany the 15th NATO member, went to the Senate following the vote and four members there expressed approval before the upper chamber's debate was adjourned today.

The Commons decision followed an hour-long speech by External Affairs Minister Pearson in which he said a stronger NATO would improve chances of fruitful negotiation with Russia.

Rejection of ratification, he said, would be a rebuff to democratic forces in West Germany, stop the move toward European unity and fatally weaken NATO.

Liberal, Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members met Mr. Pearson's request for unanimity in approval, and there were scattered boos as the first of the opposing CCF members voted.

Transport Minister George Marler Wednesday night announced the appointment of J. L. Gerald Morrisett as a member of the Air Transport Board. Morrisett, chief of the board's international relations division, will fill a vacancy caused by the death of J. P. R. Vachon.

Morrisett, 42, is a native of Lorrainville, Que. He joined the Air Transport Board in 1946 after retiring from the Canadian Army with the rank of major.

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson said Wednesday night he doubted "that EDC or NATO will ever command as much interest among newspaper readers as initials such as NHL, CBC or even God."

Pearson was commenting in parliament on a remark by Margaret Aitken, Conservative member for York-Humber and a niece of Lord Beaverbrook, that a public opinion poll showed few Canadians knew that EDC stood for European Defense Community.

Finance Minister Harris hinted Wednesday that Health Minister Martin has urged the government to reduce the 15 per cent excise tax on automobiles, apparently to assist in settling

'MAGGIE' MEN MAY GO BLIND

HALIFAX (CP)—The chief medical officer of the navy's Atlantic command said Wednesday there is "very definitely a chance" some of the 47 sailors who drank duplicating machine fluid in a clandestine shipboard spree may go blind.

In an interview four days after the methyl alcohol drinking bout aboard HMCS Magnificent, Surgeon Captain F. G. W. MacHattie said "we won't be sure for several weeks."

Although some of the poisoned sailors are expected to be released from the St. John's Naval Hospital early next week, examinations of their eyes will be continued for "quite some time."

School Tax Details Due Next Week

B.C.'s new school financing formula will come to light when Premier Bennett introduces his budget in the Legislature, probably on Friday, Feb. 4.

The premier said today enough information on the formula will be in the budget to enable municipalities to get on with their budget work.

No details of the new formula are known. However, there are reports a new system of grants to school districts will be recommended, and the present system of sales tax grants abolished.

STOTT in the HOUSE

Brevity Is the Soul
Of Someone Else's Wit

IF anyone doubts the virtues of British Columbia's Social Credit government it is neither Victoria's W. N. Chant nor Omene's Cyril Shelford.

The two proved their devotion yesterday as they opened debate on the Speech from the Throne.

Mr. Chant, who has been mentioned as a possible Vancouver Island minister now that highways and other public works are to be divided into separate departments, urged brevity in the debate. He spoke for an hour. Mr. Shelford, who seems to have lost the shyness of last year, condensed his remarks into about an hour and a half. They left little doubt of their faith in the movement, the premier or the members of the cabinet.

After Tuesday's pomp and ceremony, the House looked businesslike. Members were back in their regular places. Mr. Chant at the far end of the front row on Mr. Speaker's right rose to move adoption of the speech. From there he launched into a discussion of the peace and prosperity of British Columbia under Social Credit administration.

The Victoria member has a dignified, friendly air as he talks, not quite professorial but inclined to use long words, particularly in the sallies he attempts.

No Borrowing for Roads

Some of them come off. His partisans enjoyed his comment on the former government's road policy — liberal in promises, conservative in accomplishment.

Some of the gulps failed. One, gracefully but too elegantly phrased, was aimed at the CCF. It fell in the centre aisle with Tony Gargrave asking: "Can we have a copy of that?"

But Mr. Chant wasn't jesting when he denied any suggestion in the Throne Speech of borrowing for highways and expressed confidence none would be undertaken for that purpose.

He seemed sympathetic over the confusion he imputed to CCFers who were finding it difficult to decide which type of Socialism they were following. He was condescendingly commiserating to Liberals whom he felt had lost their constructive impulse. Eventually, he feared, the latter would be caught in the ironclad grasp of the Socialists.

All this built up to the concept that Social Credit was in for many years to come, perhaps 50. And that, thought Mr. Chant, was justifiable in view of the outstanding record of the government in office for such a short time.

He digressed to discuss world trade and the potential Red China market which, at some time though not now, British Columbia would have to develop.

All in all, Mr. Chant's was a speech of praise, for Mr. Gundersen, for the premier, for the departments, for the PGE, for debt reduction, for Mr. Gargrave and his airplane, for the encouragement of industry to B.C., the Capital City grant (which Victoria's Mr. Gregory said was a good start), the forest policy, and any number of things the government had done or contemplates.

Mr. Shelford picked up the eulogy where Mr. Chant finished, lauding Mr. Bennett and paying high tribute to Education Minister Ray Williston. Mr. Williston, serving his first session as a minister, seemed duly bashful.

'Of Thee We Sing'

Mr. Shelford seems to have been reading "the book" carefully, making inquiries in the departments and finding great satisfaction in his studies. His recital of accomplishments virtually covered the administration's program with emphasis on new schools built and planned. (He gained his own education by correspondence and wants other youngsters to have better facilities.) Turning to rural affairs, he seemed more at home and was more persuasive. He made his own little jokes — it's better to ride on Social Credit roads than Liberal promises — showed pride in the communities of his district. His account of the way one settlement had swung behind an arena project and built it largely by volunteer effort was convincing. Could any other district rival that? he asked.

"Yes," said Mr. E. E. Winch, Burnaby. "I'll tell you about that later."

All in all it was a peaceful day. They could have played "Hearts and Flowers" for mood music. And it proved one important political point: When it comes to speech-making, brevity is for the other fellow.

MLA Sees Dentistry Prices Coming Down

Shelford Hopes Establishment of UBC Chair Will Provide More Dentists, Aiding Public

Cyril Shelford (SC-Omineca) told the Legislature Wednesday he hopes establishment of a dental faculty at UBC and the training of additional dentists will bring the price of dental work down.

Salt Spring Island Cable Salvaged

An underwater electric cable near Saltspring Island, that has been unused for 20 years, has been salvaged and will be used to link three small islands near Sidney to the B.C. Electric power system.

The 16,000-foot cable was raised Jan. 12 by the tug Island Booster, but it broke and 3,400 feet were lost.

After repairs to the remainder, only 11,850 feet were found to be in good condition. More was required, so the beam trawler Haro I was put to work Sunday, and 3,340 feet were raised from 120 fathoms.

Those conducting the project are Capt. Fred E. Lewis of Seattle and Los Angeles, who owns Coal Island; W. T. Waggoner, Phoenix, Ariz.; of Knapp Island; and Paul Whittier, Los Angeles, whose home is on Goudge Island. All three are retired businessmen.

The cable is being repaired at Coal Island, likely will be laid in April or May when Ottawa approves plans. All three islands have electric generating plants, but the owners felt that some use should be made of the abandoned cable.

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The car roared down the highway at 74 miles an hour.

Police Sgt. Jerry Brunk, reading a radar speed meter, ordered policeman Leo Teague, posted ahead, to stop the driver. Teague flagged down the car. Just as the car stopped the right front wheel fell off.

Seconding the speech in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Shelford said a survey will be carried out this year for the purpose of establishing a dental faculty at the university.

He said he "wouldn't be surprised if later we will have to do something like the teacher training program and help young people from the outlying areas to come in and take this training."

"Young people coming from those areas would go back to practice where the city dentists wouldn't said Mr. Shelford.

"I know a lot of people, and also members, are very concerned by the cost of dental work, and I hope by getting more dentists it will bring the price of this work down," he said.

The Omineca member told the House the Social Credit government has paved, seal-coated, and pelve-mixed 878 miles of road in the past two and one-half years.

This represents one-third of the total paved highways in B.C., he said.

Beyond Formosa

MOST DISCUSSIONS OF THE First Great war are capped by the remark: "If the Kaiser had believed that Britain would come into the fight he would never have started the war." Of the Second World War it is widely held that "if Hitler had known the U.S. would enter he would never have touched off the fuse." Of Korea it is said that "if the Communists had been sure that the U.S. would fight they would not have invaded South Korea."

These beliefs must have weighed heavily in President Eisenhower's mind as he prepared what must surely be one of the sharpest peace-time ultimatums on record: "Cross that line and we fight." Although the United States action has been termed belligerent, and a case of wielding the big stick, it may yet prove a very successful gamble to preserve peace. Coupled as it was with suggestions for a cease-fire and United Nations intervention, it could induce a pause that might lead the way to a non-military settlement of the Chinese problem.

At any rate the Chinese communists can be in no ignorance of the extent of the forces with which they are involved. If their intent is to get as much as they can without outright war, then Gen. Eisenhower's declaration (which appears certain of early Congressional ratification), may well have nipped the Far Eastern fuse to global war. If, on the other hand, Peiping is determined to fight anyway, then the Washington statement of intentions will have added little to the danger.

It is not to be supposed that Gen. Eisenhower has not given the whole problem long and serious thought. The man who won election two years ago on a promise to do his utmost to end the Korean conflict and bring American fighting men home, is not likely to be seeking public support today on a policy of plunging his country into war.

The U.S. guarantee to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will have its quid pro quo. It is likely that Gen. Chiang will be persuaded to relinquish the off-shore islands which officially belong to China, in return for aid in retaining Formosa and the Pescadores, which from 1895 until the end of the Second World War belonged to Japan and have not yet been officially returned to China.

It is likely, too, that the Generalissimo's rather far-fetched hope of some day invading the mainland to oust the communists will be abandoned through American influence. In these respects Gen. Eisenhower's stand is obviously for peaceful settlement of the Chinese impasse.

But the situation is of far wider scope than that represented by Formosa. Consider that for years the United States has supported Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and the Nationalists. If now, in the hour of greatest threat against the exiled Nationalists' stronghold, the United States were to abandon its ally, what would be the reaction throughout Asia?

Would Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, Indonesia, Burma and other southern Asiatic states be encouraged to reject communism and throw in their lot with the western democracies? Or would they reason that if in the pinch they are to be left to the mercy of Communist China's imperialistic aims, they would be wise to make their peace with that great power now, and turn their back on unreliable western allies?

It is easy to say, "Let the Reds have Formosa; what is that to us." But this in effect is saying, "Let the Reds have what they want; we cannot or will not stop them." And that attitude is one that—communist imperialism being what it is—would inevitably have repercussions much nearer home.

A Deal With Peter and Paul

FEDERAL AGRICULTURE MINISTER Gardiner's proposal to offer part of the huge government store of surplus butter to hospitals, orphanages and similar institutions at a reduced price appears to be as promising a way as any out of an embarrassing situation. Butter which Canadian taxpayers, through Government agents, have bought for 58 cents a pound would be sold under the plan for as little as 40 cents. With the loss attributed to charitable assistance, there would be less complaint from the public.

The Government now has on hand about 70 million pounds of butter, bought on the market to keep the price at a minimum of 58 cents. This accumulation Mr. Gardiner believes to be about 20 million pounds more than "we think necessary." And the likelihood is that the beginning of the butter season this spring will find Ottawa with some 50 million pounds in cold storage.

Admittedly the solution now proposed will benefit Canadians more than the method used to dispose of similar Government surpluses of beef and pork. The latter were sold to foreign customers at reduced prices. But the surpluses had been accumulated through the efforts of the Federal Government to prevent disaster to farmers following the foot-and-mouth disease epidemic. The butter purchases were spurred by no such striking emergency. The butter was bought by Ottawa to prevent a price decline, with the hope that in the season of short supply it could be disposed of at stable prices.

The experience, however, has been otherwise. The Government has consistently bought more than it has been able to sell, and there appears little prospect of this situation changing. Does the Government butter policy, then, strive to maintain a market price that has become artificial? Are the butter purchases merely a subsidy to farmers, with no hope of the public recouping its outlay? Must cut-rate sales to foreign nations or to charitable institutions become a permanent part of our agricultural policy?

Canadian consumers are willing to support the farmer within any reasonable limits. The importance of agriculture to the national economy needs no emphasis. But high butter prices, in view of changed conditions, may have ceased to be a logical reality. It may be that we are trying to support something that no longer exists in fact—a policy of doubtful benefit both economically and politically.

Great Debate on Bingo

AMONG OTHER DEBATES IN the next few days, the New York State legislature is expected to hear widely divergent comment on its plans to legalize bingo.

Both Republicans and Democrats, prior to the last election, were generally in favor of official action to give the pastime respectable status. The same sentiment appears to influence state governor Averell Harriman, who has introduced "quickie" bills to remove penal clauses of present legislation which holds the game illegal.

Against this trend 17 Protestant denominations, banded together in the New York Council of Churches with a million and one-half members, have taken a firm stand.

The protesting organization argues that bingo is gambling and that gambling is evil. If it seems minor in the community game, it is the same in principle as more serious forms. For that reason the New York Council of Churches is against it and intends to make its opposition felt.

The discussions will hold interest for Victorians. Bingo is illegal here, too, though it is permitted under the terms of one exception: It may be staged in church halls occasionally by charitable organizations provided the proceeds go to charity.

The wording of the exception is indefinite, and perhaps purposely so.

Here, as in New York, there is doubtless a difference of opinion on the evils entailed in this method of raising funds. There are those, for instance, who will note the impropriety pointed out by the Christian Science Monitor, which says:

"Surely, in Christian morality, an immoral practise cannot be rendered moral simply because the ostensible beneficiary is an esteemed cause."

That is a point of view that may attract attention as New York proceeds with its proposal to legalize bingo and centres from Victoria eastward follow the debate on gambling, small and big.

More Recognition for Victoria

MR. ROBERT H. HUBBARD, OF the National Gallery of Canada, has extended a warm compliment to this community. He says the Greater Victoria Arts Centre is becoming well and favorably known throughout Canada.

The activities arranged at the centre and the attentances they draw convince Mr. Hubbard of the vitality and interest shown by the local institution and the people who support it.

His remarks are encouraging, following as they do the recognition of many writers in this area. Victoria, it seems is beginning to establish the type of reputation it has long sought in the realm of artistic expression.

LOOSE ENDS

The Men Who

EN ROUTE EAST—From the windows of this C.N.R. train this morning the passengers are looking out; rather dully, on one of the basic facts of Canada.

Hutchison
of spruce and the leafless scrub of poplar. And about after hour one finds no trace of man here, except his railway track.

MAN HAS COME HERE against all the intentions of nature. There is no soil to be farmed, no apparent reason for human habitation—the land, you would think, that God gave to Cain. This arc of harsh glacial stone covers, like the sterile lava of a volcano, a major part, I forget how much at the moment, of the entire Canadian nation. Worse than that, it lies as a dike between the Laurentian Valley, the heartland where Canada began, and the fertile central plains. After three and a half centuries of Canadian settlement, this region is still almost empty, unchanged since the last glacial age, scarred only by the few thin steel scratches of the transcontinental railways.

THUS FROM THE beginning the great Shield of rock and spruce has split the country in two. No wonder the early Frenchmen clung to the St. Lawrence Valley and then, bursting out of it, moved west but south, down the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, constructing what they expected to be a French empire to pinch the English colonists to the Atlantic coast.

It was not until the eighteenth century that a few daring French Canadians, like La Verendrye, threaded these badlands to reach the prairies and not until the last years of the century that Mackenzie, a Scotsman, reached the Pacific Coast. The wonder is not that they took so long but that, with only blubber canoes to carry them, they ever leaped over the central dike.

THEY MANAGED to surmount it before the Americans had even reached the Mississippi, for the French Canadian paddler could cross a continent while the sedentary English colonist was getting his boots on. But if the dike was passed, it still stood there and could not be changed as the St. Lawrence Valley, the prairies and even the narrow valleys of British Columbia were changed by axe and plow.

So it stands today, a deadweight on the whole national economy, a burden so heavy for the railways that the state must subsidize them to carry goods and people across this land of Cain. In our time, however, man has suddenly realized that the Shield is not all worthless rock, covered with snow and Christmas trees. Within the rock lie various metals, possibly the richest in the world if we could find and mine them.

THE SHIELD which was once considered a total liability, an almost insupportable weight on our national energies and a wedge driven through the body of the nation, may turn out to be one of our chief assets.

We could have thrown in the sponge long ago and surrendered Canada in chunks to the Manifest Destiny of the United States (which fortunately didn't want it seriously enough to take it by force, after two feeble attempts).

We could have unloaded the badlands on our neighbors and created one North American economy, running north and south, instead of two running east and west.

WE COULD HAVE paused at the edge of the dike and given the whole project of a transcontinental state up for a bad job, as it certainly appeared in those critical days when the C.P.R. was crawling around the bluffs of the Great Lakes under the drive of that incredible Canadian, Van Horne who, oddly enough, had been born and raised an American.

The great decision of our life was made when we decided to break the dike and, after that, the second and worse dike of the Rockies.

Until then Canada was a huddle of settlers along the St. Lawrence, a few buffalo hunters on the prairies, some desperate, bearded Victorians in the Bird Cages across James Bay and a gleam in the laughing, wily old eyes of Sir John A. Macdonald. When the two dikes had been breached, Canada was born—a frail and sickly child, to be sure, but with just enough life in it to survive against all the professional opinions of the ablest economic physicians.

HAVING SURVIVED that doubtful youth, Canada found itself strong enough to carry the weight of the Shield and finally to cross it by railway and air (and will soon cross it by modern highway) without a moment's strain on its muscles. Still, looking out the window this morning, the Canadian, if he knows anything of our past, must marvel at this prodigy, at the blind will and the shining dream of his grandfathers who burst the dike with their bare hands.

Out of the New Asia

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Rangoon, Burma.

THE least pretentious and most respect-worthy leader of the new Asia, beyond much doubt, is the man who has led the Burmese people through their hard times. The gentle manner, the quiet speech, the benevolent expression represent one side of the man.

He is the side that makes him wish to lay down the premiership of Burma in order to enter Buddhist orders. But there is another side to Prime Minister U Nu—a tough, resilient, realistic and courageous side, as the record very plainly proves.

This reporter was received in the same room, plain house where his partner was also received by the Burmese premier in 1949. In those days, only six years ago U Nu had just inherited office as a result of the assassination of the entire Burmese cabinet. And in those days, U Nu and his young government truly ruled only the barbed wire entanglement in which they lived outside Rangoon. All else, including much of the city itself, was in the hands of the Communists and other groups of insurgents.

Now, however, the barbed wire is down. The Communists are on the run and the other insurgents are at the end of their tether. Burma is on her feet as a nation. Immense problems remain to be solved but there is the wonderful hope in the air that is compounded of Burma's new freedom and even newer self-confidence. And so U Nu has a magnificent achievement to look back upon.

But he does not look back (except that he remarked with a grin that he hoped the reporter's partner had not thought the Burmese government was panicky in the barbed wire days). Instead U Nu looks at the world around him, the disordered Asian world whose threatened upheavals are the real danger to Burma's future.

He has just returned from Peking, where he dared to praise American good-will and American good intentions in his main public speech to the Chinese Communists. Just as he said things in Peking that had not been heard there since the Communist conquest, he now said things about China which Americans will find hard to swallow.

FEAR ENCIRCLEMENT

In brief, U Nu described the Chinese Communists as passionately fearful of "encirclement by American bases;" as firmly convinced that the ultimate American aim was to attack their regime; and as being ready, for these reasons, to fight in order to avoid this "encirclement."

While U Nu made it rather plain that he did not think these Chinese fears well founded, he also indicated that their existence ought to be treated as a practical fact of Asian politics. He added that he had received the most solemn assurances from the Peking leaders that they would respect the integrity of their Asian neighbors. And these assurances, he said, he had to believe until there was proof to the contrary.

If it had been all, one would have put U Nu's analysis of Chinese policy down as the graveyard whistling of the leader of a small country who hurries to be convinced by a big neighbor's smooth talk precisely because the danger is so great. But this was not all. Instead the discussion turned to a coolly dispassionate analysis of the situation in South Asia.

Being a sensible man, U Nu believes the Viet Minh will win Southern Indo-China in the end. He expects a Viet Minh victory in South Viet Nam to place Cambodia and Laos in situations of great danger. He foresees that a Communist victory in Laos and Cambodia, and above all in strategically placed Cambodia, will lead on to a Communist victory in Thailand. And as the man who outlawed the Communist party in Burma, he quite clearly views this political chain reaction with intense distaste.

Like India's Jawaharlal Nehru, in short, U Nu believes that the border between the Vietnamese people, racially, culturally and politically allied to China, and the Laotian and Cambodian peoples, racially non-Chinese, culturally Indian, and politically anti-Communist, should become the great divide in Southern Asia.

He did not deny, however, that preventing a crossing of this divide would be a difficult business.

He discussed the problem with calm practicality, with special reference to Cambodia. The first thing, he said (and with real insight) was to free Cambodia of the last vestiges of French colonialism, in order to give the Cambodian people a true sense of independence. After that, he added, India and Burma too ought to assume a serious political and moral responsibility for Cambodia's future, establishing the closest links with the Cambodian government.

GRAVE PROBLEMS

He was reminded, however, that there were also grave practical problems to be solved. Only extensive economic aid would render Cambodia independent of South Viet Nam, to which she has been tied by France in every possible way. Only the hardest and toughest kind of military guarantee could give the small Cambodia nation the self-assurance to defy the great military power of the Viet Minh, and to concentrate on building their own future. And this aid and this guarantee had to come from the West.

To these propositions, U Nu assented. But he asked whether a military guarantee of Cambodia was possible without the transformation of Cambodia into an American military base, which would immediately arouse China's fears.

The reporter ventured to reply that if India and Burma were indeed willing to assume the chief political and moral responsibility in Cambodia and the rest of South Asia, the American government ought to see that this was a far better bargain than the acquisition of politically untenable military bases. And this seemed to please U Nu.

What he said should also please the policy makers in Washington. For if there is any way to halt the terrible chain reaction that threatens to begin in South Asia and end by engulfing the world, the job must be done on the principles that U Nu quietly but clearly sketched out.

Two of a Kind

It has been said that when two Englishmen meet abroad they establish a club; where there are two Irishmen there's the making of a fight, but if there are two Scotsmen you have a Caledonian Society. Whereas the Englishmen require a couple of easy chairs, the Irishmen another opinion, you will discover the Scots earnestly seeking for two things—bottles full and Haggis canned.

Sir, our scientists seem to have everything well in hand. They seem to be able to explain everything in minutes' detail! The sun blackened out completely in London, a ball of fire streaking over Edmonton, great floods in Europe, and snowdrifts twenty feet in height in Scotland.

Not much was said re the great earthquake in Wall Street when three billion dollars was lost by someone in a week! We are becoming quite inured to these 'fearful sights and great signs.'

DISCOUNTS

I was very pleased to see the Chamber of Commerce question the matter of discounts being given to our civil servants.

If any merchant is able to give 5 to 20 per cent discount to this or any other group they should extend the same favor to all their customers. Personally I don't think present day competition allows such discounts to be legitimately given. The prices will be marked up and then discounts allowed, benefitting no one.

If this practise is allowed to go unchecked it will give the general public the feeling they are being overcharged, and rightly so.

The remedy might be in insisting that the merchants' names be published and the discounts they offer stated. This would then allow the public to boycott them, or demand the same courtesy discount.

Our civil servants should remember that their salaries are made possible by taxes paid by all merchants and others. They have the right to buy where they choose, but not the right to jointly induce any merchant or merchants to impair their livelihood by cutting their legitimate profit below the safety point.

G. W. ROBINSON.

(Ed. Note: A letter published yesterday by the B.C. Government Employees' Association made clear that members of that group in Victoria do not receive discounts.)

SCIENTIFIC HUMANISM?

Dr. Margaret Knight, whose flair for publicity is obviously greater than her knowledge of humanity, states that "the New Testament is only a fairy tale; that man's concern is with this life alone; and he has no future life in prospect; and that there is no real 'God' just as there is no real Santa Claus." Mr. L. J. Pepper expresses his gratitude, pleasure and satisfaction with this statement. He calls it a "satisfying realization of progress" and describes himself as an "enlightened humanist."

Progress forsooth! Where? Why? For whom? Can Dr. Knight, Mr. Pepper, et al, even by using what they call their brains imagine, much less produce a more beautiful 'fairy tale' of love, kindness or consideration for other people, which are admittedly human characteristics inspired by the spirit. Can they even suggest what prompts the desire for love, happiness, justice, liberty or progress?

What a nightmare of a world it would be if it were populated by nobody but the Peppers, Knights, Lenins, and their Gods of Science and Realism all ticking in unison to a mathematical symphony of the spheres, and chanting chorals of hatred, malice and all uncharitableness entitled "The Death of Illusion." Yet for all their scientific concern with "This Life-Along" and their scorn for the 'Future,' it would be a safe bet that they are all afraid to die!

They could not make even a kernel of wheat live! They would substitute for life with its joys and sorrows, love, illusions, disasters, delights, adventures and 'fairy tales,' a sordid, dreary barren desert of frustration and despair, where man was dissected on the altar of science in order to prove he was making satisfactory progress towards a revolting hell filled with the ghosts of pseudo-humanists and neo-scientists whose ideas of life were as negative as their capacity for love.

LIONEL WATERLOW.

JUST CONSERVATIVE

From a cutting I have received in this office I gather that a piece appeared in your paper under the headline 'High wages and Cadillacs' which began with the following sentence: 'The publication TRUTH, described by the British United Press as an extremely right-wing British weekly, is evidently not trying to make friends with Canadian immigration officials.'

I should like to point out to you that, at any rate since the ownership and editorial direction of TRUTH changed two years ago, there has been no occasion on which it would be possible to describe this paper as extremely right-wing. We have made clear our political attitude both in a declaration of policy and implicitly in our week by week commentaries.

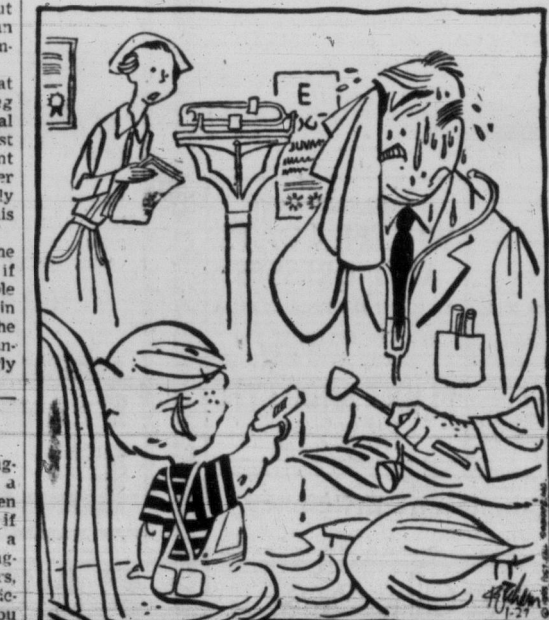

We are a Conservative paper, but if a label were to be attached to us the most suitable one would be Progressive Tory. I know you will forgive me for drawing your attention to this matter, for of course I realize that the source of the description is the BUP, to whom I have written already.

May I also point out something which does not appear to have been made clear from the extract I have seen: that is that the article which the BUP quoted was in fact written by a Canadian living in Canada.

Humanity Is Free

I SELDOM go to a movie because (a) I never seem to have time, and (b) I get all the free spectator fun I can absorb simply by watching strangers in Victoria.

After 17 years of living in a little town where everybody knew everybody else, it's wonderful to have the chance at last to watch unknown human beings going by.

It makes every hurried domestic shopping trip a bit of an adventure. It's magnificent training in observation without actually staring.

In the bank, I always watch the girl who is such a whizz with typewriter and adding machine. Her speed and staccato movements remind me of a sequence in the Chaplin film of "Modern Times."

In the bank, too, I saw the tremulous woman cashing her old age pension cheque. A line of us was waiting, but I don't mind how long I wait while poor old hands with tight shiny skin fumble in a handbag for spectacles and cheque, and then drop deposit slip and cheque upon the floor. If life's so rushed that we have to chivy the old then we might as well give up right now. Because all of us will be old one day, though none of us likes to face the fact of death, old age and slow decay.

And from that pathetic little scene, I came home with carefully hoarded details of little stockings, wrinkly and baggy round the ankles, shoes trodden over rather, by poor hard-working feet, and two gallant little patches of rouge applied with clumsy and useless care.

Even strangers are so human—the girl looking at herself in the store windows as she passes by; the woman trying to straighten her stocking seams when she thinks no one is looking; the big shot type, rotund and prosperous, whose insides probably rumble a little after lunch; the tweedy little terrier of a man who is so much on his toes that he's forever rising and falling on the balls of his feet.

I'm naive enough to enjoy it all—the plump, be-ringed hand grabbing up the tricks at the matron's bridge party; the ascetic little salad ordered by the woman over 40; the back-slapping Babbitts being boyish and jolly over morning coffee; women holding dress lengths against themselves at the remnant sale; and dreaming Heaven knows what dreams; the high school girls giggling and pretending to be oblivious of the bunch of boys behind; and the little girl being so naughty in the rest room, and saying, "But, Mummy, why can't I look under the doors?"

After a really small town, it's all such fun. Only sometimes the glimpses aren't enough. I want to know the rest of the story.

I'd like, for instance, to know about the earrings. A lean, leathery man, with a shirt collar much too big for him, was buying them at the costume jewelry counter just before Christmas.

"For the wife," he told the salesgirl. When the girl asked him what kind "the wife" liked, he said he didn't know. (He must have been married for at least 30 years from the look of him!) So the salesgirl sighed, and held up various shining ones against her pretty little ear.

"Uh-huh," he said, regarding her quite unmoved. "Not dangly. I kinda like 'em dangly."

In the end he went off with a decidedly dangly pair.

"That didn't take long," he said to me with the complacent air of an unimaginative husband who's managed to get "the wife's" present in about four minutes flat.

To me, all these people and little happenings are just as amusing and interesting as any sequence in a movie.

It's the small-town mind, I guess, and I owe it to my children to educate myself and broaden my limited mental horizon.

But movies and books cost money, and real humanity is free!

LONDON LETTER

British Families Smaller

LONDON—At random . . . TWO ENGLISH PROFESSORS HAVE just completed an eight-year job of surveying Britain's population. They have produced an official tome of over 500 pages based on the replies of millions of women here to the Family Census of 1946. The important fact that emerges is something that is obvious to even the casual observer—British families are smaller now than they used to be.

Fifty years ago the average per family was five children; now it is 2.3. The dwindling of the birth rate since Victorian times, when families of ten were common, had been a cause of worry to economists and to other people who concern themselves over such things. The feeling was that Britain was going to run out of people.

But the family size has stabilized itself now and children are being born at a rate sufficient to counteract the death rate. Why the smaller families? It is said to have much to do with the emancipation of women who, with much more knowledge now of birth control, are reluctant to devote their lives to rearing offspring as their Victorian forebears did.

HERE'S SOMETHING I DIDN'T know before: All movies to be shown in Britain are subject to censorship, with one exception—newsreels. That's the reason why during the part of a newsreel that depicted the Chelsea Arts Ball filmmakers were surprised recently to see a naked girl disporting herself in one of the tableaux.

Censorship of films in this country is done by the British Board of Film Censors and an interesting point is that the board has no statutory authority. When it says that such-and-such a section must be cut out of a film, the people who distribute the film are not bound by law to make the cut. This upholds the fine British tradition of Freedom of Speech—no censorship by law of what a creative artist wants to say on the screen.

Why then do the cinema managers not disregard the rulings of the Board of Censors when they feel like it? Reason: there is a little thing in small print in the license issued to each movie house which says that all films shown must have a certificate of examination by the Board of Censors. So, even if done left-handedly, the censorship is there.

Actually, however, any adult in this country can see pretty well every film that gets distributed, even those that get banned in other countries. Over the past few years there has been a new category added to U-films (suitable for general exhibition) and A-films (which can be seen by children only when accompanied by adults). There are now X-films—for adults only. Advantage of this is that grown-ups here can see broad-minded films (usually Continental) without them being so mutilated as to be almost impossible to follow, as used to happen when Britain followed the custom of most other countries in censoring such films down to be harmless to any youngsters who might be in the audience.

Words Swapped Between Laing and Premier

Premier Bennett and Liberal leader Arthur Laing clashed for the first time of the current legislative session Wednesday. Mr. Laing rose shortly before the House adjourned to ask the premier whether the B.C. government's contracts with Kaiser and Frohisher interests would be tabled "at the earliest possible moment."

Lands Minister R. E. Somers was absent from the chamber at the time.

The premier told Mr. Laing Mr. Somers would make a policy speech in the House Friday.

"No, no, we are asking for the contracts," said the Liberal leader.

"Order," shouted the premier and other Social Credit members. Mr. Laing was ruled out of order by Speaker of the House Thomas Irwin.

Shipyard Machinists Cancel Strike Decision

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Association of Machinists, Local 692, changed its mind Wednesday night and decided not to take strike action against Burrard Drydock Ltd. The shipbuilding firm has been picketed by 100 members of the Electrical Trades Union (CIO-CL) since Jan. 13 in a wage dispute.

The machinists had voted to take similar strike action last Friday but now will accept a new agreement based on a conciliation board recommendation.

some sunshine to those areas later in the day and the fog over the lower mainland is expected to lift during the forenoon. A moderate southerly circulation of moist Pacific air is causing rain on the Queen Charlottes and parts of the northern mainland.

MLA Parker Resigns Post With Church of Nazarene

By TOM GOULD

Social Credit MLA Charles Parker is wondering where an out-of-work clergyman can find a job between time-consuming sessions of the B.C. Legislature.

Parker, who prefers to be called "Charlie," submitted his resignation to his church, Church of the Nazarene, at Dawson Creek, shortly before leaving his home to attend the current session.

"I felt I couldn't do both jobs," he said, "and it was not fair to my congregation during sessions." The MLA said it was difficult to find a temporary replacement.

he managed a chain of grocery stores in Vancouver. "But there are only a few smaller stores in the Peace River," he said.

The 42-year-old Sacred member recently completed a new house at Dawson Creek.

The worst part of his predicament, he says, is that unemployed ministers "can't collect unemployment insurance."

Some say Parker may be appointed to the new ministry of public works proposed by the provincial government. If this is so, he would join another ordained minister, Rev. P. A. Gajardi, who heads a Pentecostal church at Kamloops, in the cabinet.

RAINMAKING MACHINES ON ISLAND SUCCESS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The apparent success of its rain-making experiments has prompted the Powell River Paper Co. Ltd., to announce plans for continuing the tests for another year.

Resident manager R. M. Cooper announced Wednesday that rainfall at the Lois River watershed last year was 68.4 inches, an increase of 1.18 inches over the previous year. The 10-year average was 59.98.

Mr. Cooper said lakes in the Powell River area are full, ensuring a plentiful supply for power generation.

Farmers Demand Action on Dumping

Soaring Imports From U.S. Cut Prices Of Poultry Below Cost of Production

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture wants "immediate action" to stop the dumping of United States products on Canadian markets.

The move was requested in a resolution, approved Wednesday by the CFA convention, which said the marketing of all turkey and poultry products "is at the mercy of the trade which seems to be able to import at will from the U.S."

Delegates said that dressed poultry imports from the U.S. up to Oct. 15 increased more than 1,500,000 pounds over the previous year. This, combined with increased Canadian production, depressed prices below the cost of production.

FORMULA DEBATED
The federation heard and debated Wednesday a statistical formula for farm price supports, then heard an Alberta farm leader contend the formula is unnecessary.

The complex formula, drafted by the CFA's policy committee, is yet to be considered by the federation's board of directors. Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, suggested in a panel discussion later that there is no need for a formula to establish support prices.

Such a formula, he contended, would have no relation to current supply and demand. WHEAT BOARD FAVORED
The federation went on record as being "strongly" in favor of the Canadian wheat board.

The CFA convention at the same time asked that the board's seed exchange policy be broadened next year to include grass and legume seed "as an aid to soil conservation." The federation also passed a resolution which said flax and rye should be the "sole responsibility" of the wheat board.

Another approved resolution called on governments to implement at once a "comprehensive long-term program" of farm financing. It was noted that the average age of operating farmers was rising and that "alarmingly" numbers of young farmers were shifting from rural to urban areas.

Drivers Charged For Obstructing Fire Department

DUNCAN—Three charges of obstructing the Duncan Volunteer Fire Department have been laid. RCMP here reported Wednesday.

Two of the persons charged will appear in police court Feb. 1 and the third Feb. 8.

The charges were laid after motorists allegedly got in the way of firemen proceeding to a chimney fire on Bell-McKinnon Road Sunday afternoon.

About 60 cars and more than 100 spectators were at the scene, and so many other motorists drove by to see the fire that the RCMP put up a road block.

Hatchet-Attacker Mistook Victim for Wife Police Say

VANCOUVER (CP)—Gratia Slaney, 52, charged with attempted murder in the hatchet attack on the operator of a nursing home here, thought the woman he attacked was his wife.

This was the testimony of police at Slaney's preliminary hearing in police court Wednesday, when he was committed to stand trial for the Jan. 9 attack on Mrs. Ronnie Townsend, 54, who broke into her bedroom and awakened her with wild screams, threatening to kill her.

Mrs. Townsend testified that she was hit five times with a hatchet by Slaney, who broke into her bedroom and awakened her with wild screams, threatening to kill her.

DUNCAN—Following dismissal of the Labor Relations Act charge against Western Forest Industries Monday, officials of IWA Local 1-80 stated they would apply for leave to continue the prosecution.

Employment Improved Over 1954

NANAIMO (CP)—The employment picture here for January is much brighter than it was a year ago, according to a National Employment Service monthly report, issued today.

Records show 755 more men employed than was the case in January, 1954, when registered unemployment numbered 2,492 men and 216 women. Comparable figures this year are 1,737 men and 267 women.

The brighter picture is due to good market conditions and favorable weather in the logging and sawmills industries. Labor turnover has been low in these as well as in the pulp and paper industries. There is, however, a large surplus of construction labor in the area.

PORT ALBERNI—Continued operation of district logging camps which often have to close at this time of the year, has been given as the reason for a brighter unemployment situation.

Manager of the National Employment Service, W. J. Allan, states that unemployment in the area is about 50 per cent down from the previous year. There is little labor turnover in the sawmills at present.

Nanaimo Symphony Plans Initial Concert of 1955

NANAIMO—Dennis Simon, 12-year-old violinist will be the guest artist at Nanaimo Symphony's first concert of the season Feb. 13 at the Senior High School here.

Conductor Maurice L. Kushner, LRAM, has drawn up an exciting program for Island music lovers, starting with the overture to Semiramide by Rossini.

The symphony comprises musicians from nearly all parts of the Island from Victoria to Courtenay and the Alberni. The 60-piece all-amateur orchestra practices once a week, members paying their own way from their homes and return as evidence of their own love of music.

Dennis Simons has been with the orchestra for the past two years and is described by his conductor as "brilliant."

Mr. Kushner's program also will include Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor. The Symphony Society, headed by Dr. R. E. Foerster, plans to hold another concert at Port Alberni or Courtenay, probably in March.

Mrs. T. B. Scott was named chairman of the ladies' auxiliary to the symphony this week.

The auxiliary arranges for refreshments for the whole of the orchestra members and their families after each con-

Dairy Owner Wants Milk Public Utility

Help Situation Said 'Hopeless'

A plea to make milk a public utility, with milk made available by a system of government subsidy to those who now cannot afford it, was urged Wednesday before the Royal Commission on milk now sitting in Victoria.

Mrs. Margaret Whittaker, member of the Vancouver Island Dairywomen's Association, presented a brief on her own behalf to the commission, Mr. Justice J. V. Cline.

Mrs. Whittaker, who runs a 190-acre dairy farm near Duncan, said that compared to other industries, the dairy farmer's lot was "incongruous" in time worked and wages which could be paid.

The farm help situation on the Island she called "hopeless," as dairywomen could not afford to pay the necessary salaries which are now between $125 and $150 monthly for a single man.

The past year in the Cowichan Valley, she said, farm families had been leaving and farms were being taken up for little money by people from European countries.

"We feel our descendants are losing their finest heritage," she said.

To meet expenses, based on her own reckoning, Mrs. Whittaker told the commission it would be necessary to get $8 per hundredweight to operate a grade A farm.

A price rise in milk to the consumer, she said, would not put it out of line with increased costs of other high-protein foods.

Duncan Group Hopes to Save Famous Church

Found Popular Camera Study

DUNCAN—Efforts will be made by Duncan Chamber of Commerce to preserve as a national memorial the old stone church on Comiak Hill, overlooking Cowichan Bay.

First Roman Catholic church in the area, it was built 85 years ago through efforts of Father Rondeau, and is sometimes known as the "butter church," since the priest churned and sold butter to help finance construction.

The old church is one of the most widely photographed objects on Vancouver Island, proving popular to residents and tourists alike. The roof is collapsing in one corner, and the chamber was told it was being used as a cow barn.

The chamber also will endeavor to have the dike along Koksilah River repaired to prevent the annual flooding of several hundred acres of low-lying Indian land. Cost of closing three breaks in the dike is estimated at from $3,000 to $3,500.

Employment Discussed By CCF Forum Speakers

Representatives of All Parties Differ in Opinion on Responsibility

Speakers of all five Canadian political parties laid the responsibility for current unemployment at the various doors of Ottawa, the provincial and municipal governments, and the voter during a forum at Douglas Street CCF Hall Wednesday night.

The only point each speaker held in common was the conviction that his party alone had the ultimate cure. Speaking at the meeting, which was sponsored by the CCF youth movement, were Dan Lawton, Progressive Conservative; Frank Snowsell, CCF; Mrs. Doris Blakey, LPP; Hugh Botterell, Liberal; and Waldo Skillings, Social Credit. Listeners numbered close to 100, and included several MLAs.

Statistics Quoted

Youthful chairman Byron Mees opened the discussion with statistics to show that locally unemployment is increasing. He said that although there are 700 fewer men unemployed than at this time last year, there is a great increase in the number of unemployed women.

Mr. Lawton, president of the Sanich-Esquamit Progressive Conservative Association, blamed the situation on the "Canadian people," who elected by a 48 per cent vote, a Liberal government. Boy, they asked for it.

He blamed the situation on loss of foreign trade, high taxes and "... hamstrung bungling of the present gov-

HOWE LEADS CBC PANEL ON CAN. TRADE

OTTAWA (BUP) — The nation's trade problems come under the microscope tonight when Trade Minister C. D. Howe joins labor and management officials on the CBC network program Citizens' Forum.

The program, (heard in the west at 8 p.m. over CBU), will feature a panel discussion between Howe, Claude Jodoin, president of the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada; B. N. Simpson, general manager of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association, and Donald Marsh, chairman of the department of economics and political science at McGill University.

Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's Magazine, will act as chairman.

ernment which is neither free enterprise or socialist."

He charged that close to 500,000 are out of work in Canada because while world trade is increasing, "Canada is losing world markets." Federal taxes on manufactured goods, income and industry are taking a third of Canada's income and a "miserable attempt at Socialism is throttling free enterprise."

An active campaign to regain world markets and adherence to a free enterprise system would solve unemployment, he felt. But he added that no system would completely eradicate the problem. Some will always be unemployed by choice or seasonal conditions, he felt.

Machine Age Blamed

Mr. Snowsell blamed the machine age for continued unemployment and said it would stay with Canada as machines take over. All levels of government must provide lost earning power, he said. "There must be alternative sources of employment through government works and there must be earlier retirement."

"You can't solve unemployment where the total production of industry is owned by capitalism. Present methods, such as unemployment insurance, are not solutions but palliatives, drugs which soothe but don't cure."

"Public planning requires public ownership." He stated that unemployment results when purchasing power is tied up in increased profits of corporations.

LPP Viewpoint

Mrs. Blakey, a former LPP candidate in many local elections, said there is proof at present that war economy can no longer provide full employment. "We can't wait for Socialism; the responsibility is at all government levels. Canada is rich in resources, but federal and B.C. policy is to export most of our raw material across to the United States. The factories are built there and we buy back the products. We need to make the finished product here."

"To do this we need cheap power. We are now threatening to export our power. Exporting power is exporting jobs that should go to Canadians."

She recommended sending trade envoys to every country in the world willing to buy from us and running the new gas pipeline east and west rather than north and south. Piped to the Island, she felt natural gas would open new opportunities for manufacturing by-products of the lumber and mining industry, such as plastics and resins.

She argued down a questioner who asked whether labor was pricing itself out of the market. She quoted figures to prove that one Vancouver shipyard had increased profits over 200 per cent in three years while wages in the yard climbed from $1.66 to $1.80.

Ottawa Defended

City lawyer Hugh Botterell defended the federal government, and said that except for unemployment insurance the problem was relegated by the BNA Act to the provinces and municipalities. He said that in order to lower taxes, which might affect unemployment, federal government projects would have to be limited. "You can't have it both ways."

He compared wartime full employment with a Social Credit plan advocated by the last speaker, former alderman Waldo Skillings. "The million people in the Canadian army were all unemployed in a sense, and supported by the Canadian people... who paid higher taxes and got less manufactured products."

Mr. Skillings said that control of credit and currency was the Social Credit answer to unemployment. He blamed the federal government for rejecting a B.C. government plan to finance a program of B.C. development on a 50-50 basis.

"There has never been a dominion-provincial conference since 1945," he reminded the audience.

Envy of Canada

"B.C. and Alberta are now the envy of all the rest of Canada" in spite of threats that no more investment would come here in the face of Social Credit "funny-money" theories," he stated. He defined the theory as "Give the people a national dividend to purchase the goods" and full employment would be maintained. "What are baby bonuses and old age pensions if not national dividends? It puts purchasing power in the hands of the people who need it. It doesn't make any difference how you get the money. If it must be through taxes, it will be through taxes," he added, claiming that was his personal view. He also defended the proposed sale of Canadian natural gas to the United States. "Americans are our best customers and greatest allies. We're exporting to a natural market. B.C.'s gas pipeline can only be economically successful when gas sells in trillions of cubic feet." And he added that we'd better hurry and sell it before it becomes obsolete by use of atomic power.

Quebec and Newfoundland are exporting millions of tons of iron ore to the United States. "Why holler about B.C.?" he asked. More to the point as the underlying cause of much unemployment he thought was the fact that "there are too many in the laboring classes who want to give as little as they can and get as much as they can."

Proceeds from a silver collection after deduction of hall rental were given to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

No ifs, ands or buts about it. When you give the gun to a 1955 Buick with Dynaflo Drive*, you move.

In the instant you push down the pedal, you get the action you've called for—immediate getaway from a standing start, or immediate safety-surge out of a tight spot on the highway.

It's not magic, this thrilling and pulse-quickening response—though it feels like the closest thing to it.

It's a principle of the modern airplane, brought for the first time to an automotive transmission.

Twenty "variable pitch propellers" inside the Dynaflo unit itself can change their angle—like the propeller of the airliner can change its pitch from take-off position to cruising position.

And what this brings to you—at the wheel of a '55 Buick—is the nearest thing to flight on wheels. Far better gas mileage in your normal driving and cruising. Spectacular response when you want it for quick getaway or emergency acceleration.

But all this, mind you, with the absolute smoothness that is constant in Dynaflo Drive.

Surely, a demonstration of Variable Pitch Dynaflo is a Buick "must" this year. We'll be happy to do the honors—and show you, in the doing, what a whale of a buy you make here. Drop in this week, won't you?

Pay-as-You-Go Policy To Remain Says Chant

Victoria MLA Gives Opinion of Govt. Plans for Highway Building Program

Social Credit MLA W. N. Chant of Victoria Wednesday said he is confident the provincial government will not abandon its pay-as-you-go policy in increasing the highway building program.

"I am confident there is no such change in policy, and no such change is contemplated," said Mr. Chant.

"The premier and the government has made it clear that the Social Credit government's policy in British Columbia is to reduce the debt, not increase it (which we are doing), and I am confident that the increased highway policy will be carried out without any increase in the debt," said Mr. Chant.

The Throne Speech, read at the session opening Tuesday, said "provision will be made to meet the province's immediate needs in connection with highway facilities in such a manner as to encourage development of our natural resources, agricultural produce, industrial undertakings and tourist travel."

Some observers interpreted this to mean the government may borrow funds to carry out B.C.'s expanding highways program.

Mr. Chant, in moving the speech in reply to the Speech from the Throne, gave members of the House his opinions on the Liberal and CCF parties.

CCF HAS PROBLEM

The CCF, he said, is having a difficult time "deciding which branch-line of Socialism to follow—CCF, Fabian, Marxist, or to follow their most recent program, which seems to have all the earmarks of an exposition on how to capture unwary free enterprise voters, and at the same time remain a sound Socialist party."

"The Liberals," said Mr. Chant, "when vainly trying to call our government to account, display strong symptoms of suffering from a serious malady of self-induced inhibitions of illusory hallucinations..."

CHENNAULT'S ADVICE

U.S. Arms for Anti-Reds; Smash Chou Armies Now

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Major Gen. Claire Chennault (Ret.) said today the "time has come for a showdown with the Chinese Communists."

Chennault said in an exclusive interview that it will be easier for the United States and her Asian allies to defeat the Red Chinese now than one year hence.

"We had better have a showdown now," the former commander of the Flying Tigers added. "I don't like war but sometimes it's better to fight things out."

Chennault said he did not believe American ground troops would be needed in a showdown with the Red Chinese.

"We can use troops of friendly Asia nations who are plenty willing to fight if we supply them and provide air and sea assistance," Chennault said.

"The Reds strained every muscle to get 1,000,000 men into Korea and many of them were

Preventive War Not Part of Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leader William Knowland of California said today that President Eisenhower certainly does not believe his fight-for-Formosa resolution carries authorization to wage preventive war.

A small but determined band of Senate critics has raised a cry that the resolution is so broad as to do that. They are battling to restrict its terms.

Knowland fought back against that interpretation in Senate debate Wednesday and, before the Senate reconvened today, paid a visit to the White House.

On leaving, Knowland told reporters the purpose of his visit was to bring the president up to date on the Senate debate.

DISCUSS CRITICISM

In reply to a question, Knowland said they had discussed the argument by Senate critics that the resolution would authorize preventive war against Communist China.

"There certainly is no question in the president's mind that the resolution is any such thing—that is, an authorization for preventive war."

"By no stretch of the imagination" does the resolution open the way to preventive war, Knowland said.

"Unless the Chinese Communists attack our planes and ships on their mission, there will be no shooting as far as the United States is concerned."

"I don't believe any American would expect our planes and ships to sit there like sitting ducks and not return fire. Obviously they would not do that."

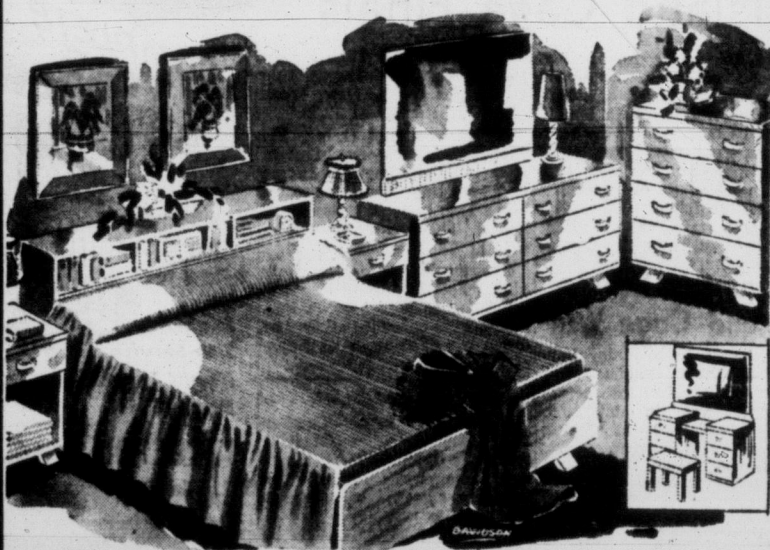

Knowland predicted the resolution will be overwhelmingly approved by the Senate. In exactly the same form as in the House of Representatives, 403 to 3.

CHINA ATTACK WOULD NEED 400,000 MEN

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told Senators that 300,000 to 400,000 U.S. ground troops would be needed to win a foothold on the Chinese mainland, it was reported today.

The statement was attributed to the army chief of staff by a senate informant familiar with developments at Tuesday's closed-door session of the senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

The joint chiefs of staff appeared at that session for testimony which some senators interpreted as clear evidence of disagreement between Ridgway and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, on the nation's ability to sustain armed action against the China mainland.

Crop Sales Increase

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada, with still more than six months to go in the 1954-55 crop year, has already topped last year's sales under the International Wheat Agreement.

Figures released Wednesday by the Canadian Wheat Board showed sales to date have reached 91,575,000 bushels, compared to last year's total sales of 90,895,000.

Sales at this time last year were only 55,200,000. Canada's quota or the maximum amount it guaranteed to supply under the IWA this year is 152,337,000 bushels. Last year's quota was 150,842,000.

War Censorship Blacks-Out 7th Fleet News

By FORREST EDWARDS
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Correspondents with the United States 7th Fleet off Formosa are subject to an almost complete news blackout under navy censorship.

The navy's restrictions forbid any news story touching on the following subjects:

1. Fleet movements.
2. Fleet size.
3. Fleet disposition.
4. Intentions.
5. Possible damage.

These restrictions have been applied so broadly and severely as to withhold anything but a trickle of minor feature stories.

SAYS NOT CENSORSHIP

The navy insists the restrictions are not censorship. However, the restrictions are actually a censorship much, much tighter than any formal censorship applied by the United Nations command in the Korean War.

All correspondents with the fleet have been required to sign fresh agreements to submit their stories to the ship captain or higher commander for clearance. Even if the stories pass the captain they must be sent to the commander of the U.S. aboard the flagship.

Pacific Fleet in Pearl Harbor, then to the navy chief of information in Washington for ultimate release.

As a result, almost no news of the fleet has been cleared for publication.

The fleet commander, Vice Admiral Alfred M. Pride, has refused repeated requests to allow correspondents to work on the fleet.

Habs, Leafs Draw

Smith's Penalty Aids Canadiens

Toronto 1, Montreal 1

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Sidney Smith, a gentlemanly player in hockey, is running into a rash of penalties. He's had two in three games.

That's a lot for Smith, who has never been an opponent's brawler nor crossed a skunk in nine National Hockey League seasons with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Smith, Toronto's brightest star this year, picked up his fifth minor penalty of the 1954-55 campaign Wednesday night as Leafs and Montreal Canadiens battled to a 1-1 tie. He didn't even trip or knock to get it. He had to be the seventh man on the ice and found that referee Bill Chadwick had no trouble counting before 14,270 howling fans.

The 29-year-old leftwinger, bidding for a spot on the league's all-star team, had given Leafs a 1-0 lead at 10:41 of the first period and was ready for another turn on the ice when Chadwick caught him jumping over the boards. Leafs already had six men in action so he had no choice but to banish Sid for two minutes.

Smith was sitting out the penalty when Jean Beliveau whipped the puck past netminder Harry Lumley at 13:56 to deadlock the engagement. That was Beliveau's 28th goal of the season.

Any disgust Smith might have felt for his unexpected penalty undoubtedly was caused by his scoring performance. He tallied his 25th of the season and, with 21 games left, is virtually a cinch to hit the 30-goal circle again. He last did it in the 1952-53 season.

Smith sent Leafs ahead on a three-way play with defenseman Hugh Bolton and centre Rudy Migay. Two Canadiens and one Leaf were in the penalty box at the time. Smith snared Bolton's short pass at the goal-crease and flicked the puck past goaltender Jacques Plante into the open corner.

Beliveau, towering Montreal centre and the league's leading scorer with 54 points, tied it at 13:56. He split the Toronto defense and blasted home a waist-high shot that Lumley couldn't handle. Maurice Richard and Doug Harvey got assists.

Tonight's fifth-place New York Rangers are at Detroit and the last-place Chicago Black Hawks take on the fourth-place Bruins at Boston.

Royals Seeking New Home

The New Westminster Royals, who drew little but moths and creditors to their Inter-city Lacrosse League games at Queen's Park Arena last year, are looking for a new summer home.

Last in attendance and league standings and with little to lose, the Royals plan to apply to the league commission for permission to play at least eight of their home games in Chilliwack next season. Chilliwack, a bustling sports-minded city, is building a new 2,000-seat arena, scheduled to open in May.

If it comes down to a vote of other member teams, the Royals will probably have the Victoria Shamrocks behind them.

Coach Red McMillan of the Shamrocks said of the plan,

Think He Scored?—Think Again

Victoria Cougar veteran Mark Marquess scored one of the goals in Cougars' 8-1 drubbing of New Westminster Wednesday night but Mark is probably still wondering how he missed getting another counter. In the first period

Marquess had the puck and himself firmly established on the New Westminster goal crease, with goalie Lucien Dechene completely beaten on the play—but failed to get the puck into the net. (Times photo.)

NEW YORK (UP)—They will be enshrined forever among baseball's greatest all-time heroes in the hall of fame—but the four new men selected for that honor found the happy news "hard to believe."

U.S. PAIR IN NET FINAL

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, America's victorious Davis Cup team, advanced to the doubles final of the Australian national tennis championships today.

They whipped Mervyn Rose and Rex Hartwig of Australia, 6-4, 10-12, 6-0, 6-1, in a semifinal struggle.

In the other semifinal, an all-Australian affair, Lew Hoed and Ken Rosewall beat Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper, 12-10, 6-4, 6-2.

Saanich Basketball

Brentwood senior C men meet Sidney in the third game of a three-game Saanich and Suburban Basketball League card at the Brentwood Community Hall Friday night at 9:15.

In the preliminary contests Brentwood midget boys clash with Saanich in the opener at 7:15, and Cordova Bay juvenile girls play Brentwood at 8:15.

Tied for second place after the first day's play were the Carl Larson rink of Chilliwack and the Walter Van Buskirk crew of New Westminster.

Capilano's Claire Miller and Pacific's John French—both Vancouver rinks—each won one and lost two, while Billy Cassidy's rink from Pioneer Mines lost all three contests.

"It can't help but be an improvement. The Royals certainly have nothing to lose."

The Shamrocks were never able to clear travelling expenses from the visitors' split of the gate in their trips to New Westminster last season.

Coach Ralph Douglas has left the team and Ted Bradbury is rumored as the next coach.

And while the New Westminster franchise is in jeopardy, being the weak sister of the league, it is said that New Westminster will drop the biggest bombshell in the league's annual meeting, Feb. 4.

It is rumored that the old New Westminster Salmonbelli organization, inactive but still kicking, will apply for the New Westminster franchise. With two teams battling over control of almost nothing, the league brass will have an interesting problem to legislate. The league is also likely to hear some stern words from Victoria and Nanaimo with regards to the split of gates. The visiting team split of games here and up-Island was all that kept a couple of the mainland clubs breathing.

On the local front, Shamrock officials are still awaiting answers to the letters they sent out to last year's import players who went back to their homes after the season. Invitations to return for another season were sent to Nip O'Hearn, Gordie Johnson, and Jack Bionda but not to Jack Sibbald, in whom the Rocks were disappointed.

Bionda, who had hoped to play hockey for the Pittsburg floor partner, Whitey Severson, is raring to go on another season, might help change Browning's mind.

Tab's Cougars for Third After Rout Over Royals

By BILL WALKER

Victoria 8, New Westminster 1

The smile spread from ear to ear—well almost, and all coach Billy Reay of the Cougars did was untie his shoe-laces.

"Well, say something," an inquiring reporter asked of the tremendous 8-1 triumph the Cougars had scored over New Westminster Royals in Western League hockey Wednesday night.

Reay straightened to a sitting position, the smile turned, and he said:

"You'd be surprised, wouldn't you, if I said we'll finish in third place?"

That's when the recollection struck that Reay had spoken the same words earlier this season. Then he added: "It's not the time to crow when you're on top, but tonight the boys played the hockey they are capable of."

And certainly Luke Dechene, the New Westminster goalie, should agree. Big Luke was busier than a moth around a light bulb as the Cougars threw everything at him but the water boy. He stopped 14 shots in the first period while giving up two goals; kicked out 21 in the second period, while allowing two more, and was glad for the respite in the third when he only had to handle seven—the other four that hit the net saved him the extra bother.

Pete Particularly Proficient

It was truly a team triumph, but, even at that, one figure loomed above the rest. It was Pete Durham at his best. As goalie, Marcel Pelletier said:

"I've seen him play four years now and I've never seen him play better."

Of the one goal that spoiled his bid for a sixth shutout, Marcel commented:

"What does it matter? We got the two points." The puck went off Walt Clune on Motto McLean's drive in the third period, deflecting into the corner of the net.

The avalanche started early and it wasn't long before it appeared the Royals must be buried.

Dechene suffered a mild injury on a pile-up in front of his cage early in the contest and before he could get relief, Colin Clune had almost as many shots as Bedard as the Cougars did at Dechene.

The Cougars clicked through Andy Heberton twice—the second counter on a break from Ed Dorohoy in which Heberton neatly pulled Dechene from the net to slide the puck home—Dorohoy and Bill Bucy. Clune and Bedard were still bouncing at the bell.

Heberton's goals were his 33rd and 34th of the year, tying him with Bronco Horvath for the league lead.

Of the bumping bout, Clune said:

"No, I don't think he (Bedard) got mad; I think he sort of liked it."

Just as the eight goals the Cougars scored, comprised a new look (equaling the high for the year), so did the line-up that Reay put on the ice.

Reay Moved to Centre

Reay moved to centre between Anderson and Kilburn, did at Dechene. The Cougars Achymichuk pivoted Marquess and Kuzma, and Dorohoy had Heberton and Macaulay as his mates. And every line clicked.

But while the Cougars were clicking here, so were the Vancouver Canucks at Edmonton.

The Canucks pumped three goals by goalie Glen Hall in the third period to hand the Flyers a 6-3 setback and end Hall's shutout sequence at two games.

That victory kept the Canucks eight points in arrears of the Cougars—with four games in hand.

The Canucks seek to make up ground tonight at Saskatoon. The Cougars must wait until Saturday to have at the Royals again at Westminster.

Or as Reay said: "Why worry about fourth; it's third they're after."

Canucks Tounce Flyers

Vancouver 6, Edmonton 3

Wild Bill Ezinicki may not be the top scorer in the Western Hockey League but his fire and dash seem to inspire his teammates to the necessary heights.

Edinick, recently returned to the Vancouver Canucks lineup, scored only one goal Wednesday night and he picked up six penalties.

But his enthusiasm was catching as George Ford scored three goals and Canucks beat Edmonton Flyers 6-3.

Other Vancouver marksmen were Ray Cyr and Ching Johnson. Lorne Davis potted a brace for Flyers and Edile Stankevich scored the other.

Flyers took a 2-1 first period advantage but Canucks squared it 3-3 going into the third.

Ford scored the first of his trio with a backhand from in front of the net and he scored his second early in the second with a hard shot from close in.

His third goal came off a rebound from goalie Glen Hall's stick.

KINS TO MEET UBC CAGE TEAM SATURDAY

Victoria Kins, who will meet Vancouver Ellers for the British Columbia ladies' senior basketball championship next month, have scheduled a tune-up game here Saturday.

Kins, devoid of the opposition here this season, will meet the University of British Columbia senior team at Central Junior High School.

Game time is 9:30. The contest will be preceded by an exhibition between Individuals and Vampires of the Senior B Men's League starting at 7:30.

Island Hockey Teams Resume Play Friday

Having taken a back seat to figure skaters and basketball players for two weeks, the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League gets back into action Friday night with two games at Memorial Arena.

The three city squads in the four-team league have gone without games or practices for two weeks because of arena appearances by the Ice Cycles and Harlem Globetrotter show.

The spotlight will be on Drake Hotel and Navy for the remainder of the season as these two clubs battle it out to avoid a fourth-place finish.

DRAKES HAVE CHANCE

The hot and cold Drakes are in the cellar but have a chance of overhauling a Navy squad that has been weakened by recent sea-drafts. The club that finishes last will have the unenviable task of meeting first-place Nanaimo Clippers in the semifinals while the third-place club has the slightly easier task of taking on the runner-up in the other semifinal pairing.

It is not likely that either Clippers or second-place C & C Taxi will be shunted out of their present positions before the schedule comes to a close.

The opening game at 7:30 brings together Navy and the first-place Clippers. Drakes take on Taximen in the second game and neither of the trailing teams can afford to lose.

Favored Rinks Advance In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—There were few surprises in the first round of the Quebec Province curling championships Wednesday. Both the favored Montreal rinks and Quebec City's strong Jacques Cartier Club quartet came through with wins.

Ten teams, champions from each of the provinces' curling districts, are playing off a four-day round robin, the first event in the 42nd annual Quebec international bonspiel. The winner will represent Quebec in the Canadian curling championships March 6 at Regina.

Montreal Caledonia's Ken Weldon crushed C. Manderson of Kenogami 12-6 and Jim Lavery, town of Mount Royal, had a harder time edging Jack W. Miller of Trois-Rivieres 9-8. Both Weldon and Lavery are one-time Winnipeg players.

Victoria Club Golf

Mrs. V. Godfrey-fired an 88-13-75 to win the January medal competition at Victoria Golf Club Tuesday. Mrs. L. E. Pope won the bronze division with 98-31-67.

Joey Not Too Sharp; Must Meet Al Again

NORFOLK, Va., (BUP)—Joey Giardello must fight Al Andrews again on Feb. 9 to get a shot at the middleweight crown because his ring-scrapping Wednesday night was less impressive than his recent outside brawling.

Executive secretary Truman Gibson of the International Boxing Club ordered the re-match today because top contender Giardello of Philadelphia had extreme difficulty in winning a unanimous 10-round decision over unranked Andrews of Superior, Wis.

Joey and Al will meet in a return 10-round bout at the Baltimore Coliseum on Feb. 9. "And if Giardello is more impressive than he was here in Norfolk last night, he can still get a title shot at Bobo Olson in late March," Gibson said. Matchmaker Billy Brown agreed.

Fighting for the first time since Sept. 24, the once-classy Giardello appeared slow-footed and inaccurate in the nationally-televised bout before a turn-away crowd of 3,800 in the Municipal Auditorium. Desperate Joey pulled the fight out of the fire by staggering speedy Al in the eighth round, flooring him with a right in the ninth and finishing stronger in the 10th.

Giardello, scaling 162 pounds to Andrews' 159, won on a "ten-point-must" basis as follows: referee Paddy Mills, 97-82; judge Johnny Burton, 96-95, and judge Charley Ford, 97-93.

"I'll admit I wasn't particularly sharp," said Philadelphia's Joey today. "But I thought I won by a good margin. And he never hurt me once. I asked for the re-match because I need another bout under my belt before a fight Olson."

Andrews declared bitterly, "I kicked him last night and I can do it again. Maybe I'll get the decision I deserve next time."

ORFU to Fight Possible Cup Ban

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Bailey, secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Tuesday night banning the ORFU from challenging for the Grey Cup would make youngsters hesitate to play football in the ORFU.

He warned that any such move by the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Football Union will be fought by the ORFU.

"The ORFU will play for the Grey Cup," he said. "He has no particular reason for thinking so, but tradition is involved, he said. "When you've played in a thing for so many years, you don't just get kicked out."

FOOTBALL PEACE PACT AUTHORIZED BY NFL

NEW YORK (BUP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Wednesday he has been authorized by a unanimous vote of the club-owners to negotiate a peace with the Canadian leagues "provided it is honorable and just."

"However, we will not give up everything and forget the past," said Bell.

He said, regarding players who have jumped to the Canadian leagues, that each case would have to be taken up individually and decided to which teams they justly belong.

Canada Cup Golf Meet Moves to Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—An international golf tournament featuring the top players from more than a score of countries, including Canada, will be held in Washington next June.

William E. Shannon, president of the Columbia Country Club, where the $100,000 tournament will be held, and Fred Corcoran, promotional director of the International Golf Association, made the announcement Wednesday.

The tournament dates were set at June 9-12. Two players from each country will be selected for the event, the third annual international tourney. It has been held for the last two years at Montreal, where it was called the Canada Cup tournament.

A trophy is awarded the winning nation. Each of the competitors receives $500. It will be a 72-hole medal play tournament, with the low

Australian Swim Stars Attend Special Instructional Classes

SYDNEY, Australia (BUP)—Hypnotism and physiology are being used at Narrabeen Lakes, near Sydney, to complete the swimming education of 53 young athletes.

Students attending the special course—the first national swimming school to be convened in Australia—range in age from 11 to 19 years and include five husky swimming coaches who are at the school to learn new techniques and exchange new ideas and information.

Among the pupils are some of Australia's major swimming hopes for the Melbourne Olympics in 1956, including several national and world title-holders.

In competitive swimming, where a second or a fraction of a second could mean the difference between victory and defeat or the failure to break a record, technique is of the utmost importance.

A day at the camp starts at 6 a.m., when the boys limber up prior to taking to the water for the first of their three daily swims in the lake.

Theoretical instruction includes lessons in the application of science to athletics, the reasons for athletic fatigue and the history of swimming through the ages. Theory lessons are sandwiched between practical activities.

Professor Cotton explains to the pupils that "the body is a machine, and to get the best use out of it, you have to understand its mechanics." He emphasizes his theory of "peaking," which explains why an athlete's performance drops immediately after training and slowly comes back to top within a few days. "Scientific training," he explains, "is in concentrating on an athlete reaching that peak to coincide with the date of the championship event which he is entered."

Boy Scout Movement Lauded by Publisher

Development of Young Through Personal
Achievement Exemplifies Work, Says Keate

The development of youth through personal achievement is exemplified in Scouting, and countless fathers and mothers have expressed their gratitude for the result, Stuart Keate, Times publisher, told Victoria District Boy Scout Association annual meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Keate was guest speaker at the meeting, held in the Monterey restaurant.

In spite of the importance of team play in our society and its stress on sport to build character, Mr. Keate said, "It is my belief no man can be a success, and a balanced member of the human community, until he has first learned to discipline himself."

The principles of scouting—faith in God, the Queen and our country—Mr. Keate called "those ageless and enduring beliefs which have helped us build on this continent one of the happiest and most durable societies in human history."

FIRST PRINCIPLES

These principles "instilled in boys and girls in their formative years, are the ones which build character," Mr. Keate said.

"There are great lessons to be learned from these private struggles of the mind and body," Mr. Keate, who is also a member of the Boy Scout provincial executive, told 175 association members.

He illustrated with the examples set by Dr. Roger Bannister and Sir Edmund Hillary; strongman Doug Hepburn and crippled golfer Ed Furgol—all champions, but at the same time masters of self-discipline.

Dr. Bannister's achievement in running the fastest mile in the world, Mr. Keate considered the supreme individual performance in recent months, and one which will guide youth for years to come.

"He transmitted the lessons of sport to the lessons of life," said the publisher. Dr. Bannister was regarded as great when he achieved his triumph on the track, but "our admiration for Bannister... was greater, in my opinion, when we learned that he had made up his mind to quit running and to devote all his time to his medical career. This was the work of a great man."

DISAPPOINTMENTS
Mr. Keate said that a temporary disappointment in life is not necessarily a bad thing for young people: "the true champion is a man who conducts himself throughout his life in a manner which matches his attainments on the playing field or track."

For Scout leaders the speaker had high praise. "We who have children in the movement owe you a great deal. Believe me, you have no idea of the gratitude expressed for your efforts by countless unknown fathers and mothers. There is a very real gratitude in the hearts of people who entrust their children to your care."

Mr. Keate offered a maxim:

Church Officers Appointed at St. Alban's
At the annual meeting of St. Alban's Church congregation A. Hemsley and A. E. Wyeth were appointed rector's warden and people's warden, respectively.

The rector, Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh, reported a considerable increase in Sunday worshippers. Average attendance was 200 per Sunday.

Building fund stood at $13,000, and with pledges still to be filled, an early start on the proposed new hall was forecast.

Elected to the church committee were Sir Robert E. Holland, R. C. Bowen, W. P. George, D. A. George, L. Stockwell, F. R. Clark, E. J. Scott, A. Hampton, R. A. Geldart and T. J. Inkpen.

No Sign of Life On Mars, Says Struve

Life is non-existent on Mars and at the present time there is no possibility of life originating on the planet, Dr. Otto Struve, one of the world's foremost astronomers, told a meeting of the Victoria Centre Royal Astronomical Society, at Victoria College Wednesday.

Dr. Struve, president of the International Astronomical Union and professor of the department of astronomy at the University of California, is spending a week in Victoria. He is a guest of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

Speaking on the planets, Dr. Struve said there was no possibility of life on the moon and Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune were too cold to support life. Mercury was too close to the sun, he added.

But Dr. Struve said there was one planet which might eventually produce life. That was Venus, a dead planet, which at present is a desert having no nitrogen and oxygen.

Likening Venus to the earth, Dr. Struve said it "is possible to think that Venus is one planet that might be in the process of producing life."

About 300,000,000 cubic feet of gas was involved in the deal, announced by N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada, and David P. Rogers, president of Union.

It was the first contract to be signed by Trans-Canada, which is negotiating with other distributing companies along the 2,250-mile pipeline route from Edmonton to Montreal. Construction of the line will start this spring.

Slum-Raised Youth To Be Hanged For Killing Girl's Stepfather

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UP)—In the death of his girl friend's stepfather and was sentenced to be hanged April 12. An all-male Assize Court jury returned the verdict after one hour of deliberation and sentence was passed by Mr. Justice J. M. Cody.

Hoodley shot and killed John Rudolph Tonick, 39-year-old longshoreman, on the doorstep of the victim's home here last Nov. 13.

BAD FEELING
Evidence introduced at the three-day trial indicated there was bad feeling between Hoodley and Tonick because the victim's stepdaughter—who had been going to marry the accused—revealed that her stepfather had forced sexual attentions on her when she was a young girl. The girl, 19-year-old Pat Wallace, was not at the home when the slaying occurred.

NO INTENT
Defense counsel Richard P. Anderson had asked for a verdict of manslaughter on the grounds that Hoodley had no intent to commit murder.

"Hoodley was raised in the slums of Shanghai by his Siberian refugee mother after his father, an alcoholic, abandoned them. They came to Canada in 1949.

"Two psychiatrists described Hoodley as an 'aggressive psychopath' who would be inclined to violence by liquor. He had been drinking before the slaying, witnesses testified.

Asked if he had anything to say, Hoodley told the court he wanted to thank the judge and jury for 'a fair trial.'

City Crime 'Box Score' Four for One

For every $1 in stolen goods recovered in December by city police, Victoria's underworld made off with another $4 worth, it was revealed at a police commission meeting Thursday.

The commission commented that there was improvement noted in the figures of $4,335 stolen and $1,011 recovered.

Similarly, a great deal of lost property is either still to be located or has changed ownership under the law of 'finders keepers.' Value lost was $807, value found was $214.

Monthly report of chief of police, John Blackstock, also showed the following: A total of $6,058 in fines received, 31 juvenile court convictions, including seven for theft and four for taking cars without owners' consent; 25 persons were injured in 106 auto accidents but none died; four Victorians were escorted to Essondale; 96 premises were found insecure in police checks; 59 drunks paid $435; there were 672 meter violations which brought the city total fines of $779.

British Efforts To Kill Mau Mau Chieftain Fails

NAIROBI (Reuters)—British officials grimly admitted today that Kenya's No. 1 mau Mau leader, "Field Marshal" Dedan Kimathi, has escaped all attempts by troops and bombers to kill or capture him.

Information pieced together from informers and prisoners taken recently in the Aberdare forest indicated that Kimathi escaped from his forest headquarters despite fierce RAF bombing.

After the air assault a ring of troops moved in, supported by anti-aircraft guns used as field artillery. They found an elaborate series of hideouts, many documents with Kimathi's name and a large quantity of ammunition, but no Kimathi.

LIFE-SAVING RENDEZVOUS

Aircraft Ditches In Sea Beside Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—A crippled four-engine military plane covered hundreds of miles of stormy mid-Atlantic Wednesday, then ditched beside a coast guard cutter. All eight persons aboard the plane were picked up safely.

For an agonizing two hours and nine minutes, the plane groped through storm and gathering dusk toward the coast guard cutter Coos Bay, a tiny speck on the vast turbulent sea.

Then, minutes before nightfall, the plane found its target. The pilot brought his craft down expertly on the heaving, gale-swept sea. Lifeboats plowed to its side and the survivors were whisked to safety.

Radio was the thin thread that brought the plane and the cutter together in a life-saving rendezvous far from land.

Chemical Pulp Production Hits New High in Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian chemical pulp production set a record in 1954. C. M. Matheson of Montreal, chairman of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, reported.

Mr. Matheson said chemical pulp production exceeded 4,000,000 tons for the first time in the history of the industry.

The increasing importance of Canadian pulps in world markets was shown by overseas shipments being 43 per cent greater than in 1953. Shipments of market pulp to the U.S. were moderately higher.

Mr. Matheson said a continuing strong demand in most grades of chemical woodpulp is indicated for 1955.

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARIES

Base Metals Climb On Copper Rumors

Base metals soared for the best climb in two months on the Toronto exchange amid rumors of an impending increase in the price of copper.

International Nickel was ahead $1.37 1/2 to $39.37 1/2 at 2 p.m. Noranda was up $1.50 to a 1954-55 high of $84. Hudson Bay, Quebec and Falconbridge major fractions.

Senior base metals gained in a solid line and the group's index was ahead 1 1/2 points on the day to 165.80, the best advance since the index climbed two points Nov. 24, 1954.

Industrials gained narrowly with strength in steels and manufacturers. Financial institutions eased. General Motors was ahead $2.50.

Western oils eased. General Petroleum dropping 30 cents. Low-priced metals were mixed with small changes.

Prices were irregularly stronger in active trading. Hudson Bay and International Nickel improved a point while Algoma and International Paper were higher. Half-point gains were posted by Price, Power Corporation and Noranda.

Canada Cement lost a point while General Dynamics and Shawinigan dropped 1/2.

Mines were trendless in a 10-cent range. Central Explorers was up 20 cents in an otherwise featureless western oils section.

NEW YORK

The market hesitated under profit-taking but forged ahead with only a few areas of weakness persisting.

Gains ran to around 2 points, with a few especially strong individual issues pushed up around 6 points. Losses went down to between 1 and 2 points.

Steels were active and somewhat higher, and good gains were shown in motors, radio-televisions, coppers, oils and railroads. There were minus signs in the aircrafts, utilities and building materials.

Gains were generally posted by Canadian issues. International Nickel was up 1 1/2, Dome Mines 1/2, Hiram Walker was off 1/2.

Lower Canadian stocks on the American stock exchange included Royalite Oil and Giant Yellowknife, down 1/2 and 1/2, respectively.

He noted that during the 1948-49 recession in the U.S., Canada's economy continued to expand. And during the more recent recession of 1953-54, while the separate behavior of the two economies was not so marked, the Canadian decline was not as sharp as that in the country to the south.

He acknowledged: "There have been many times in the past few years when the Canadian economy has moved in the same direction and has behaved in the same manner as the American economy. But I would suggest this similarity arises mainly because we share the same continent and the same economic environment; not because movements in the American economy induce similar movements in our own."

Mr. Muir made clear Canada's position in the world.

Speaking on the same theme to a meeting in New York, James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, got right to the heart of the matter with the observation: "We have a present and future independent of the United States."

War No Answer To World Fate Says MacArthur

Pacific War Victor, 75, Charges
Leaders Fail to Meet People's Need

By ARTHUR F. RENNE

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Wednesday night the Formosa crisis demonstrates "the inherent weakness" of collective security and warned that the ultimate fate of the Far East and the rest of the world will not be settled by war.

MacArthur, in a 75th birthday speech, pleaded with the United States to "break out of the straitjacket of the past" and proclaim its readiness to abolish war along with the other world powers.

He pleaded with leaders on both sides of the Iron Curtain to heed the wishes of their peoples by seeking a workable plan for disarmament and peace and decried recent statements in Washington that the nation must go on, for 50 years or more, preparing for war as a means of preserving peace.

"The leaders are the laggards," MacArthur declared. "The disease of power seems to confuse and befuddle them. They have not even approached the basic problem much less evolved a working formula to implement this public demand. . . . Never in the chancelleries of the world or the halls of the United Nations is the real problem raised."

Truth Being Concealed From People

"Never do they dare to state the bald truth, that the next great advance in the evolution of civilization can not take place until war is abolished."

MacArthur climaxed a full day of festivities with a speech at an Ambassador Hotel civic banquet sponsored by the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion. The dinner followed dedication of a monument to the general in MacArthur Park, on Wilshire Boulevard only a few blocks from the hotel.

The general, fired as Far East commander by President Truman in 1951, said the world's citizens want peace, regardless of what their leaders want, and asked:

UNIVERSAL NEED

"When will some great figure in power have sufficient imagination and moral courage to translate this universal wish—which is rapidly becoming a universal necessity—into activity? . . . We must have new thoughts, new ideas, new concepts. . . . We must break out of the straitjacket of the past."

MacArthur said this might sound "somewhat academic," in view of the "acuteness" of the situation in the Far East. "Militarily," he said, "the situation demonstrates the inherent weakness of the theory of collective security—the chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and what is even more vital—its full power can only be utilized when all links are brought simultaneously into action."

"The diverse interests of allies always tend towards separation rather than unity."

"Whatever betides the ultimate fate of the Far East—

Margarine Ban "Gimmick" in Giveaway Plan

Butter 20c Cheaper
If Hospitals Agree

OTTAWA (CP)—The government, seeking to rid itself of part of a huge surplus, is planning a butter giveaway with string attached. The strings are aimed at knocking out some competition from low-priced margarine.

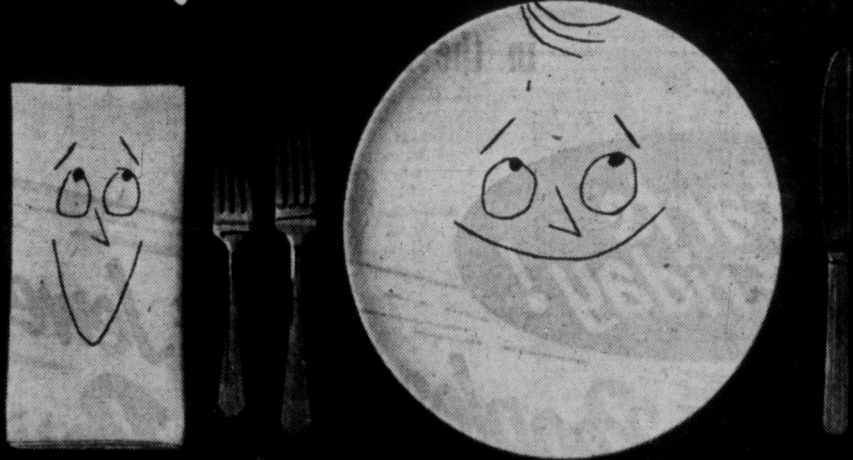

The plan, now taking shape, is to give public institutions, such as hospitals, orphanages and charitable homes, one-third of their butter requirements free—providing they buy the other two-thirds from the government at the regular price.

The net effect, officials said Wednesday, would be that institutions would get butter at an average price of about 20 cents a pound below that charged in the regular market. But they added institutions would probably have to agree to use only butter—no margarine.

Principle of the plan was approved by cabinet after dairy officials considered a number of proposals for ridding the government of its butter surplus, built up during the summer production months under the government's 58-cent-a-pound support price.

First word of the plan came from Agriculture Minister Gardiner when he told the Canadian Federation of Agriculture at Edmonton Tuesday part of the surplus will be sold to Canadian institutions at a price "considerably lower" than the federal floor.

National Trust Stresses Benefits of Broad Investment Powers in Management of Estates and Trusts

Following are high-lights from the addresses given at the 57th annual meeting of National Trust Company by J. G. Hungerford, President, and H. H. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager.

Total assets under administration exceed $467,000,000—the highest in the Company's history.

In the past year $37,000,000 of new assets were entrusted to the Company as Executor, Trustee and Agent.

People have different reasons for appointing a trust company to act as executor and trustee. Sometimes it is because of unfortunate experiences with personal executors and trustees. Sometimes it is because they know of no individual who is willing or has the time and capacity to assume the arduous and exacting duties that executorship demands.

Very often the trust company is appointed because it is not mortal and can provide a continuity of service long after any individual who might be appointed has departed this life. Sometimes it is a combination of these circumstances plus the realization that trusteeship is a job for professionals—that is, a full-time job which requires specialized knowledge in fields which are unfamiliar to most individuals.

The requirements for good trusteeship are greater to-day than at any time in the past. In order to meet these requirements, trust company policies and practices must be constantly adapted to changing fiscal regulations and economic conditions. Income tax and succession duty laws and regulations are subject to frequent modifications and revisions.

Importance of Investments

To be well informed on these matters is a necessary part of successful administration, but perhaps most important to-day is the ability of the trust company in the management of investments. Without question, this ability, besides depending on good organization, will depend on policies which recognize the importance of equities in investing for estates and trusts . . . remembering of course that each estate presents its own individual investment problems.

Many years ago, fixed-income-producing securities were the normal medium of investment for trust funds. Inflation and taxes have outmoded this practice—at least with trustees who have kept pace with changing conditions.

Changing conditions require a trustee to be more alert than ever before. It is therefore essential that you allow your executor ample scope in investments by provision in your will. Without such powers, the benefits of flexible management are lost.

Inspector Asks Milk Controls Return to Hands of Industry

A new act which would return milk controls to producers and distributors was suggested here today before a Royal Commission on Milk by Vancouver Island milk inspector A. E. Webb.

Controls work best when industry itself handles them, and as the "ills" of the milk industry have been with producers and distributors, the correction should also lie with the two groups, he said.

"This is the foundation on which controls should be built." A new provincial milk act, he suggested, would provide distributor-producer council set-ups authority to decide their own major administrative matters such as retail and wholesale price schedules.

It would operate as a "pool" plan under standards of eligibility and licensing. "I believe it would work, and it offers the greatest degree of hope for the milk industry," he said.

Indicative of this was the fact that a higher degree of co-operation among milk men had come about since controls above the producer level were removed.

HEAR CONSUMERS
The commission was scheduled to hear also from the Victoria branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, protesting the standard milk prices whether purchased in stores or delivered at homes.

Elsewhere, those who wish to buy milk in stores make a saving while "we in Victoria are denied that privilege." Victorians today are paying 24 cents a quart for standard milk and 26 cents a quart for special milk whether purchased in a store or delivered.

If the high price of milk here is causing people to depend on powdered milk, then a large portion of the fluid milk market is being lost, the brief said, reducing the producer's best-paying outlet.

MISS MAXWELL... Macmillan's choice

Lola Maxwell Proposed for Library Board

Slated to nomination to Victoria Library Board at a council meeting later today was Miss Lola B. Maxwell, well-known Victoria High School teacher.

It was indicated this morning that Miss Maxwell's name would be submitted by Alderman Robert Macmillan, who stated earlier he would oppose two recent nominations by the mayor.

In his inaugural address the mayor named Alderman Frank Mulliner and Mrs. Doris A. Loughheed. Last year, Ald. Macmillan also protested the mayor's recommendations. He forced a secret vote on the matter.

He was successful in bringing about election of his own candidate, Professor Wallace of Victoria College.

WILLING TO SERVE
Miss Maxwell told the Times today that she had been asked to stand for the office and was willing to serve. She did not disclose who approached her on the matter, but it is understood from recent remarks by Ald. Macmillan that he was searching for candidates.

"I'll nominate others," he said. I am in favor of the present board and never have been. As far as I am concerned there will be plenty of nominations."

H. R. Stephen, town planning official, had also been asked to stand for library board, he said, but did not feel he could take office in the light of his planning commission work. Other last-minute nominations were expected from Ald. Macmillan and Don Smith this afternoon.

Manslaughter Faces Minor

16-Year-Old 'Car-Jockey' Charged In Accident That Killed City Man

A 16-year-old "car jockey" at Wilson Motors Ltd. was charged with manslaughter in city police court today.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded Rudolph Zembrodt, 1202 Fort Street, to Feb. 4 and set bail at $2,500.

It was charged that on January 16 in the city of Victoria he did "unlawfully kill and slay John T. Gawthrop, contrary to the Criminal Code."

Zembrodt was transferred from juvenile court to city court.

Defense counsel is J. D. D. Campbell.

Mr. Gawthrop, aged 60, of 1115 Leonard Street, died at Royal Jubilee Hospital January 16 following a two-car collision four days earlier at Hillside and Blackwood.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "culpable neglect" on the part of Zembrodt at an inquest January 18.

Gawthrop and Zembrodt were the drivers of the two cars, it was stated at the inquest.

NEW CAR
Evidence was then given at the inquest that Zembrodt was taking a 1955-model car to Wilson Motors for the first 1,000-mile check-up.

The coroner's jury was told Gawthrop's car was traveling north on Blackwood and stopped at a stop sign at Hillside. It then proceeded in low gear into the intersection when the collision occurred.

The car, driven by Zembrodt, was traveling east on Hillside, it was said.

Mrs. Margaret Stapleton, 24, of 164 Cambridge, a passenger in the Gawthrop auto, is still in hospital with multiple fractures sustained in the accident.

Her condition was reported as "good" by hospital authorities today.

Gawthrop's son, Const. Arnold Gawthrop of the RCMP, was treated for minor injuries. Zembrodt also required hospital attention.

The coroner's jury was told that the Gawthrop car was spun by the impact and rolled about 30 to 40 feet backwards up Hillside before coasting forward and ending up in a flower bed.

Witnesses said the car Zembrodt was driving was traveling above a normal rate of speed.

Sidney Man Charged With 1952 Break-In
A suspect in a 1952 break-in at the Atlas Theatre, 836 Yates Street, was charged with breaking and entering and theft in city police court today.

John Martin Howitt, 122 Beacon Avenue, Sidney, was remanded to Monday without plea when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Stolen in the Dec. 22, 1952, burglary was a typewriter, table-model combination radio-phonograph and a public address system.

Police said today some of the loot has been recovered. Entrance was gained through a washroom window. The culprit made his way out by a rear exit.

Howitt will appear in Oak Bay court Friday on a charge of breaching and entering and theft from Royal Victoria Yacht club, Cadboro Bay, Jan. 3.

The charge involves equipment valued at $268 taken from the yacht club workshop.

Jet-Powered Craft New Firm's Objective

Construction of a jet-powered helicopter of revolutionary design, with rotor, fixed wings, and speeds equal to that of a DC-3, likely will be one of the first long-term projects of Fairley Aviation Co. at its Patricia Bay plant, it was learned from company officials today.

The company has arranged for purchase of a hangar at the airport, and will take over Feb. 1.

The plant will start with a workshop area of about 60,000 square feet. In its early stages the western division will concentrate on aircraft maintenance, overhaul and repair, which officials expect will provide a solid foundation for future growth into aircraft manufacture.

The parent company in England has designed a rotary wing aircraft that will carry 40 to 50 passengers, or 10,000 pounds of freight, and has two prototypes under construction.

They are scheduled for completion early next year, when one will be delivered to British-European Airways. Having high speeds in level flight, plus the ability to ascend and descend vertically, the model will be particularly adaptable for the many difficult transport problems produced by the unusual terrain of western Canada.

Company officials also are confident that it will make a major contribution to the airport congestion problem plaguing most large cities.

Tiny jets on the tips of the "windmill" of the Rotodyne, proposed name for the new aircraft, will provide the power to raise it vertically. Turboprop engines on the stubby wings then will drive it forward.

Few Key Men to Train Employees
According to Dr. F. T. Fairley, MP for Victoria, who has worked closely with company officials in plans for the Patricia Bay plant, the company intends to bring only three or four key men to Victoria to train local personnel as help is required and the business expands.

"While the start will be small, it is confidently expected that a similar growth, to that at Halifax will occur at Pat Bay," according to Dr. Fairley. "In Halifax they started in exactly the same way with three or four men from England, and now employ a working force of approximately 1,000. The work they expect to do is similar to that at Halifax—which is repair and overhaul for the RCN and RCAF."

Simultaneously with the opening of the new Vancouver Island plant, the Canadian company will move into the second major

Rites Saturday For Veteran Of Auto Trade

W. L. "Wally" Williams, member of the Victoria automotive industry for 30 years and prominent clubman, died suddenly Wednesday.

Building Men Elect Moffat Second Term

James Moffat, carpenter's union business agent, was elected to his second term as president of Victoria Building Trades Council (BTC) at a meeting Wednesday in Pandora Street labor hall.

Others elected to the 1955 executive included vice-president Charles Peck (electricians), secretary-treasurer Cliff Parker (operating engineers local 115), sergeant-at-arms Earl Allen (labors' local 1093), and trustees Don Bushell (painters), George Monkman (lathers), D. Cunningham (bricklayers).

Council was informed that the Board of Industrial Relations will hold a Victoria sitting in the near future to hear recommendations for revision of existing minimum wage orders in the construction industry.

Hearings held here and in Vancouver will be partly responsible for proposed Minimum Wage Order 12, applying to all trades in the construction industry in B.C.

Members of the council went on record as being in support of the Ken Griffin fund committee, and will make arrangements for free labor in construction of a house for the disabled former sportsman, now in hospital undergoing treatment for polio.

Health Board Headed By Esquimalt Man

CLR. SAMMON

Esquimalt councillor G. K. "Gerry" Sammon was elected chairman of Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health at a City Hall meeting today.

It is the first time since the board was set up in 1946 that the president has been chosen outside of the city.

Retiring president is ex-alderman for Victoria, Mrs. Margaret Christie.

The board heard a report by acting medical health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey, stating that a current upsurge of measles is normal for this time of year.

Three applications for the post of medical health officer have been received by the board but no decision is likely until late in February.

The board discussed tendency of some municipal departments to do business behind closed doors and decided that in future the press would be at liberty to attend board meetings.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—On what dates during 1954 did the eclipses of the sun and moon occur?—Mrs. M.A.T. A.—Sun: Jan. 5, June 30, Dec. 25; moon: Jan. 18, July 15. Three of the five were visible in parts of Canada. Of the three, only one was seen by Victorians. The beginning of the lunar eclipse on Jan. 18 was not visible in B.C., but the ending was, and it was seen by Victorians. That was the only one of the eclipses seen from this island.

Q—I read that Ottawa is preparing for a centenary celebration, extending for a year. When was the place incorporated?—T.L.G. A.—The village of Bytown was incorporated as a town in 1847, and on Dec. 18, 1854, the town was incorporated as a city of Ottawa.

Warm Gloves Still Needed
...Especially at This Price

By PENNY SAVER

Even if the days are creeping toward spring you still need some cuddly warm gloves. Yes, even with the sun out, it gets nippy! I saw some pastel angora gloves today, and they had cute little cloche hats to match. They looked so sweet, that I could just see them matched with your winter coat, or colorful sports costume. The price, 79 cents for the hat, and 79 cents for a pair of gloves. Inexpensive, and smart... not many left, so hurry!

* * *

Let's dress up your vanity table. I found Japanese-made, semi-porcelain dresser sets today that really appealed to me. There was an oblong tray, and on it two tall cologne jars and a trinket box with a lid... all made of the shiny semi-porcelain, and hand-painted. The rose pattern so delicately painted on each piece was simply lovely... and the whole set costs only 95 cents! Perfume atomizers, more frivolous dressing table accessories, caught my eye. They, too, were made of the Japanese semi-porcelain, and were decorated with tiny flowers. There are violet and rose patterns, and raised daffodils, lilies and violets, that look as if they were just placed on the tiny jars. You can choose from taller or short squat styles, both are awfully cute. On the bulb attachment of each atomizer, tassels hang from the silk mesh covering. There is red or blue. How much? Oh, yes, 79, 89 and 99 cents. The rose-patterned atomizers are of a matching design.

sign to the dresser set. (They really look adorable on my dresser!)

Here's another set, only of a different type. Breakfast sets, made up of a tray, teapot, cream and sugar, toast holder and cup, are made of English bone china. Made in Victoria rose pattern, these are ideal if you have someone in the house who is bedridden, or if you just feel frivolous yourself. The whole set costs only $2.19!

Victoria Rose English bone china cups and saucers are on sale for 59 cents. For such a low price you can have a complete set... aren't these January sales wonderful!

AS WE LIVE

Girl, 15, Resents
Boy's Dating Others

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PhD

A young teenager who gets upset when a boy shows interest in other girls is allowing herself to lose her sense of proportion.

(Q)—I am 15 years old and have been going steady with a boy of 17 for four months. I really love this boy very, very much and he says that he loves me just as much. He bought me a hope chest and said that he would buy me an engagement ring when I was 15½ years old. Yet he still goes out with other girls and tells me about it. Could you tell me what I should do?

(A)—You should get the idea of being engaged to this boy at this time out of your head. Do your parents know that you are thinking of becoming engaged to him after such a short acquaintance and when you are still so young? I am sure they could not approve.

There is no reason in the world why both you and this boy should not be dating other people and having a good time. You are much too young to consider marriage now. How could a 17-year-old support a wife?

The fact that this boy tells you about his dates suggests that he is confident that you will understand that he is not yet ready to settle down, even though he prefers you to other girls. Don't let this upset you, even if you would rather he saw no one but you.

As for the hope chest, this is something you can keep for many years and use should you later marry this boy. Otherwise be sure to return it to him. He has given it as a pre-engagement present and a promise of future marriage.

It would be better to defer getting the engagement ring until there are clearer prospects of marriage. Surely your parents and his will not consent to your getting married at this time. When you wear his engagement ring, it means that you have plans for marriage in the not-too-distant future. Since this boy wants to date other girls, he is not too serious about immediate marriage.

Work of C.A.R.S. in Province Handled By Miss Mary Pack

She plans the over-all program for the province for the British Columbia branch of Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. She makes flying trips to visit centres established by the branch. She listens to the problems of her physio-therapists and gives them suggestions in the arranging of their work. She even has an eye on the finances of the branch.

The list of things this quick-moving, pleasant-faced woman in the grey uniform does could go on and on—for her day is crowded with work aimed to help in the task of rehabilitation of those unfortunate enough to have rheumatism or arthritis.

Her name is Miss Mary Pack and she's executive secretary to the British Columbia branch of C.A.R.S.

At present she is in Victoria to try and find a way in which to make the public a little more conscious of the work done by C.A.R.S.

"We have the full support of the B.C. Medical Association," she points out, "and we work closely with them." There are two C.A.R.S. physio-therapists in the South Vancouver Island area. Miss Pack says—Miss Paulina Jenkins and Miss Ruth Arthur. Their headquarters are at St. Joseph's Hospital.

They are experts in exercises, heat and hydro therapy. Miss Arthur works at the hospital and Miss Jenkins goes out to the patients' homes. Miss Pack is enthusiastic over a new centre started last week at Cowichan. "There were six patients at the first visit," she said and then added, "We went up for a second visit this week and found 12 patients waiting for us. The doctors sent them to us. Everyone is as keen as needles over it up there."

Another centre was recently opened at Prince George, Miss Pack explained. In the C.A.R.S. branch in British Columbia there are 28 physio-therapists and 27 of them were trained in the British Isles. Miss Pack herself came originally from England but she says "it was years and years ago."

She wears the grey uniform and beret that marks her as dedicated to help in C.A.R.S. program.

There is a great need for a centre for training of physio-therapists in B.C., she points out. "At present training can be obtained at University of Toronto and McGill... a little at University of Alberta. That is all."

Colwood Volunteer Fire Department's Women's Auxiliary, bingo party, at Fire Hall, Friday at 8 p.m. Funds to furnish rooms above fire hall... Pastime Centre, films on Friday at 7.30 p.m. Tea will be served.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Harmless to Remove Hair With Razor or Depilatory

In spite of all that is now known about superfluous hair, I still receive many letters from women wanting to know what to do about it.

This sounds like the dark ages, when a woman went about with straight hair before we had permanents, lived for years sabotaged by a big mole on her nose, used a straight-jacket corset in order to hide her figure faults, used chalk instead of powder and rubbed her cheeks and bit her lips in order to create color just before her best beaux arrived.

The problem of superfluous hair is so simple in most cases! Hair on the legs can be banished either with a depilatory or with a razor. I do not believe that shaving the legs makes the hair grow in any faster or thicker. It does leave the ends stubbier than a depilatory does, because the latter melts the hair.

So far as hair on the arms is concerned I think that for this reason a depilatory is best. Hair on the chin? If you have a few pet hairs which persist in appearing, use the tweezers and use them as often as necessary. If you have fuzz on the upper lip, use cosmetic wax.

These are all temporary measures. If you wish to rid yourself of the problem of superfluous hair permanently you must resort to electrolysis, which is the only method of permanent removal.

I have written often about electrolysis. Then I receive letters from women saying that they spent time and money on this and then the hair came back just the same. This is not possible if you had a well-trained operator, because the hair root is killed with electrolysis.

The reason for this misconception is apparent, taken for granted you had an operator who was well trained. The distribution of hair is dictated by the glandular setup. No doubt the operator did kill the hairs you had but new ones appeared afterwards.

If you do not want to bother continually with those hairs which trouble you, then have them removed permanently with electrolysis. On the other hand, do not feel "put upon" if you have to tweeze a few hairs on your chin or use a depilatory once or twice a week on your legs or arms. After all, all improvement has its price, and the one for ridding yourself of superfluous hair is small. Get rid of it one way or another!

MONTREAL, January 27th—I'm very grateful... to the food experts who have perfected Royal Instant Pudding... for now we can have really scrumptious puddings and pie-dings without stirring over a hot stove... without a long wait to cool and set! ROYAL INSTANT PUDDINGS are the only puddings— instant or regular— which are super-homogenized! That's what makes Royal Instant Pudding so smooth... so light and fluffy. Never a lump nor a starchy taste! Never a sign of a film on top! If you'll take my advice, you'll get Royal Instant Pudding in all 4 flavors— chocolate, butterscotch, vanilla and coconut cream! Each is a delight to prepare and to enjoy!

I've Lost My Heart to two delightful gentlemen—Mr. Chase and Mr. Sanborn—the fabulous coffee men! They're justly proud of their superb new INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE—but each has his own opinion of why it's so good! Mr. Chase says the secret is his unique method of brewing and extracting all the rich coffee essences. But Mr. Sanborn vows it's due to the top-flavor beans. I suspect both are right! It's really wonderful coffee—and to make it, you just add boiling water. I constantly meet people who feel as I do—grateful to Mr. Chase and Mr. Sanborn for bringing us their fine coffee—100% pure coffee—in an Instant!

Got Your Heart Set On Something? A home of your own? A place in the country? A holiday such as you've never had before? All these goals you can achieve if you plan for them. And the one way to realize your plans, I've found, is to go into debt to yourself... at the BANK OF MONTREAL. Going into debt to yourself simply means that you agree to pay into your own "special-purpose" account at the B of M a definite, regular amount each pay-day. In other words, you put yourself on your own payroll! It's a wonderful feeling to see the object of your saving coming nearer all the time... Why don't you set up a plan with the man in your life tonight, and tomorrow open that special account at your local branch of "My Bank"?

That "Extra Goodness"... so many of us find in BLUE BONNET MARGARINE is there because only the best quality ingredients go into it—pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk. You'll find you're making the lightest cakes—the flakiest pastry—the crunchiest cookies—when you use Blue Bonnet. Blue Bonnet makes a smooth, delicious spread; melts to golden goodness on your hot vegetables. You'll enjoy the extra convenience, too, of the individually wrapped De Luxe quarters, and the handy package guide which shows just where to cut—so no measuring cup is needed! Or order Blue Bonnet in the 2-lb. economy pack—all golden-yellow, of course!

Kornelson-Ray Rites In Mainland Church

A wedding of interest to Victoria took place in Vancouver's Christian and Missionary Alliance Church a short time ago, in which Rev. W. H. Brooks heard the vows of Margaret Daphne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray, Esquimalt Road, Victoria, and Lloyd Wesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kornelson of Driver, Sask.

Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums decorated the altar, and white satin ribbons and small chrysanthemums marked guest pews. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin, the bodice fashioned with lily point sleeves. A satin and lace skull-cap trimmed with white seed pearls held a veil featuring a small train. She carried a tapered bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. R. S. Fisher, sister of the bride, who chose a yellow taffeta gown with net overskirt and lace bolero. Bridesmaid, Miss Ann Nevison, wore a dress of yellow taffeta with bronze net overskirt and matching bolero. Both carried bronze and yellow chrysanthemums. Little flower girl, Miss Marlene Knoblauch, wore a dress of rose taffeta with net overskirt and matching headpiece, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Best man was Mr. John Laur- ensen, while ushers were Elmer Bismeyer and Bill Russell. A reception followed at "The Hollies," where toast to the bride was proposed by M. Winram.

Mr. and Mrs. Kornelson toured the Southern States for their honeymoon, the bride traveling in a powder blue wool suit and topcoat of azure blue with a black stripe. She chose shoes and purse of navy and hat and gloves of deep salmon color. The couple are now living at Driver, Sask.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE
AA (Oscar class). BB (Worthwhile).
A (Don't miss). 3 (For rainy days).
C (To put in time).

TIME I SAW PARIS" (Capitol)—This MGM Technicolor film should not be confused with the excellent wartime non-fiction work of Elliot Paul, describing Paris before the Nazi invasion and which inspired the beautiful ballad of the same title by Broadway hit musical writer, Roger Hammerstein III. This is a play about something else again, although it has adopted the identical title and uses the same melody for its theme.

This story concerns young Second World War army officer Van Johnson accidentally meeting a transplanted American family in Paris. Daddy (Walter Pidgeon) is a gay blade who gets by on credit and charm, and two beautiful daughters, Elizabeth Taylor and Donna (Fernando Lamas), are from Here to Eternity's Red.

DONNA, THE CONSERVATIVE daughter, spots Van first, but Van has eyes only for fun-loving Elizabeth. With the war over, the two get married and make Paris their home. Gay daddy's wedding present is only a gesture, a few hundred acres of worthless Texas land. However, the giddy happy couple get along the best they can on Van's newspaper salary, Van getting down to write the great American novel in his spare time and Elizabeth to fritter hers away by such escapades as jumping into fountains and generally leading the life Parisiennes seem to expect Americans to live while in Paris.

GORGEOUS (HAS SHE no bad camera angles?) Liz resents even the time she has to remain serious long enough to have a baby.

BUT SUDDENLY THE roles of husband and wife switch. Daddy's frowned-upon wedding gift starts spurring off the Americans in Paris become "sinking rich." This results in Van, disheartened by having three of his novels rejected, turning into a big-time playboy, complete with racing cars and Eva Gabor. And Liz, watching her marriage go to pot, tries to convince Van it is time to go back to America before it is too late.

BUT THE SWITCH TURNS out to be the film's main weakness. If more time had been devoted to this—mainly the why of it—"The Last Time I Saw Paris" might easily have turned out to become a top-flight drama. As it stands, it is better than the average love story film you see these days, and points up the ever-improving artistry of Van Johnson and Miss Taylor.

Once more Miss Reed proves why she won a supporting Academy Award last year. She is a sterling actress—but why, oh why isn't she given more and better opportunity to show her wares? One more thought: Watch out for little Sandra Descher, who's surely a Shirley.

PS: Don't forget the hankies, ladies.

"I've read books and stories about us all, and none of them sounds quite right. So I am hoping this will at least give a flavor of this family that has lived for generations in a series of goldfish bowls, completely obscured by myths and legends."

You'll laugh - and you'll weep - with the theater's fabulous royal family

For the first time... the real, firsthand story that truly captures all the magic, the family flavor of the fabulous Drew and Barrymore clans. The sparkle and glamour of the theater's most romantic days come thrillingly alive in Miss Barrymore's own words. It's all here... the disappointments of looking and waiting for parts... the early lessons to change her famous voice... the exciting one-night stands across America... the thrilling night her name first went up in lights over Broadway. Be sure to read this treasure chest of memories told by the theater's Great Lady. It's unforgettable!

'Copter in Garage Common by 1985

NEW YORK (UP)—Aviation experts predict a helicopter in every garage and an atomic engine in every plane in 1985.

Weather reports will come from a space platform. Newspapers will publish close-up pictures of the moon. A trip from New York to Los Angeles may take only 90 minutes.

A glimpse into the world of 1985 was pictured at a symposium of leading aeronautical and astronautical scientists sponsored by Trans-World Airlines at the Hayden Planetarium.

Ralph S. Damon, TWA president, announced in connection with the symposium—a $100,000 prize competition—$30,000 of it to go to the person who most nearly describes commercial aviation 30 years from now.

Baseball Suit Settled for $200,000

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—A bankruptcy referee today accepted a $200,000 settlement of the defunct Liberty Broadcasting system's $12,000,000 suit against the major leagues and 13 big league baseball clubs.

In accepting the $200,000 offer, referee D. M. Oldham scolded the two principal creditors—Hugh Roy Cullen, Houston multi-millionaire, and E. R. McLendon, Dallas theatre and radio magnate—who also were the main stockholders in the bankrupt broadcast chain.

Oldham said that Cullen and McLendon, who owned 100 per cent of the Liberty stock, "let it (LBS) be fun into the ground and be busted."

Enlarged Stadium Approved in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A municipal stadium, big enough to support major league baseball, football and soccer, may be completed here in time for the 1956 baseball season.

Board of Control Wednesday approved a proposal to issue $1,750,000 worth of debentures to enlarge Maple Leaf Stadium to 42,200 seats.

The stadium, home of the Toronto Maple Leafs' International League baseball team, now seats 18,000.

Victoria Council of Women urged city police commission Wednesday to appoint a woman probation officer for juvenile work. The commission feels that such a decision is ultimately a provincial matter but will give the request consideration.

Merchants Ask Ban On Milk Importation

Opposition to the importation of milk into the Victoria district was expressed today in a brief submitted to the Royal Commission on Milk by the Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association.

"There are sufficient farmers on the Island" to supply the need, the brief said.

Over the signature of the president and commission delegate, W. Palmer, the brief said: "Let's face the facts. The dairies in Victoria have been hiding behind the control measures long enough and with their policy in business tactics should be prevented from combines action."

The group asked: "Are the combines in Victoria too powerful for the government to handle?"

The merchant group said that the milk bought at a corner store should be cheaper than dairy deliveries to homes. Milk brought in by the CPR was not 100 per cent reliable as there was talk of service curtailment, and "we feel milk coming from farmers in and around Victoria carries less bacteria."

With no Sunday milk deliveries, dairies store milk for delivery Monday, "then they state they sell fresh milk."

A quart of milk now costs the independent merchants 23 cents and "we still get one cent." Dairies had been asked for another cent but answer had been "no."

The group asked the commission to seek a two-cents-per-quart increase for all retail outlets on milk.

UN May Hold Session Monday To Deal With Formosa Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Diplomatic sources said today the Security Council may be called into session next Monday to consider possible United Nations action to arrange a cease-fire in the China fighting.

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Red China's Ambassador to India called on Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today, prompting speculation that India is playing a key role in efforts to obtain a cease-fire in the danger-packed Formosan Strait.

Observers here were convinced India was being called upon to perform the sort of go-between duties she handled successfully in ending the Korean and Indo-Chinese fighting.

It was believed Chinese Ambassador Yuan Chung Hsien discussed with Nehru the latest developments involving Formosa.

Tomorrow Nehru will leave for London and the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference. A top item on the agenda of that meeting will be the Formosan crisis.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today President Eisenhower would decide personally whether to use U.S. forces for purposes other than immediate self defense in protection of Formosa against the Communists.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in a statement that Eisenhower had made that clear at a conference with civilian and military defense officials.

The statement said that at the White House conference today:

"The president made it clear that these U.S. forces were designed purely for defensive purposes and that any decision to use United States forces other than in immediate self defense or in direct defense of Formosa and the Pescadores would be a decision which he would take and the responsibility for which he has not delegated."

WOULDN'T DELEGATE

This means that only Eisenhower himself could authorize such a step, for instance, as the bombing of Chinese Communist troops and supplies on the mainland or troop transports in Red harbors.

Earlier, Senator William Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, said Eisenhower does not believe his Formosa resolution carries authorization to wage preventive war. (See also page 9.)

NO PAY BOOST FOR MLAs BENNETT INDICATES

B.C.'s MLA's will have to do without a pay increase for this session at least, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

The premier told his press conference this morning he feels "poor people, those on low incomes, and the unemployed should have first call on purchasing power."

"The members all accepted their positions by choice," he said, "and at election time there always seems to be plenty of candidates for these positions."

MLA's circulated a petition suggesting a pay boost at the last session of the House, but nothing came of it.

Wall Street "Boy Wonder" Murdered

Police Advance Robbery Motive

NEW YORK (CP)—Financier Serge Rubinstein, wizard of Wall Street who faced deportation as an undesirable alien, was found dead in his lavish Fifth Avenue mansion today, apparently the victim of a strangler.

An authoritative source said a cord had been twisted around the neck of the 46-year-old one-time boy wonder of the finance world. The body, bound and gagged and clad in costly black silk pajamas, was found face upward in a third-floor bedroom of the marble and oak-paneled mansion, which has six floors and two elevators.

Tape two inches wide covered his mouth.

Rubinstein, who for most of his adult life gaily boasted that he was a "man without a country," was convicted and jailed as a draft dodger in the Second World War.

POSSIBLY ROBBED

Police mentioned robbery as a possible motive.

The room had been ransacked. All drawers in the dresser section of a built-in wardrobe had been pulled out. "The place was turned upside down," police said.

The body was found by a butler at 8:30 a.m. Rubinstein's hands and feet had been bound with heavy twine, apparently the cord from a Venetian blind.

The Russian-born Rubinstein had been in hot water with immigration authorities since 1938, when he illegally entered the United States from Canada on a Portuguese passport. The Portuguese government disowned the passport and after years of litigation the U.S. ordered him deported but the case ended up in the appeals court, where it was when he was killed.

At least five persons, including Rubinstein's mother and aunt, were in the house during the night. All were being questioned.

WIRE BRIEFS

FORD STRIKE SETTLED

WINDSOR, Ont. (BUP)—CIO United Auto Workers Union sources said today a settlement has been reached in the 100-day Ford of Canada strike, subject to member ratification.

In Toronto, T. J. Emmert, head of the Ford's negotiating team, confirmed that "a basis of settlement" had been reached in the strike of some 9,000 workers.

Gold Mines Subsidies To Continue

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to renew subsidies the crew can hack this ice for two years—1955 and 1956—under a modified formula which will reduce payments sharply.

The government gave notice on the Commons order paper today that it will ask Parliament to amend the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act to extend it to the year 1955 and 1956 "subject to certain modifications."

It was understood the modifications are aimed at reducing the government's outlays for subsidies, which in 1954 totaled about $16,500,000.

An outline of the proposed modifications likely will be given in the Commons tonight by Mines Minister Prudham.

Search Launched for Kitimat Power Break

Trouble Crews Battle Snow, Cold, Fog To Restore Electricity at Alcan Plant

Trouble crews, equipped with snow shoes and two-way radios, braved cruel, winter weather and thick fog today in an effort to track down the break in the 50-mile Kemano-Kitimat power line which has left the giant Aluminum Company of Canada's Kitimat plant without electricity.

It was understood crews were dispatched from both ends of the line, which stretches through the treacherous Kildala Pass.

Although faced with the possibility of a two-week suspension in operations, George Vincent, company spokesman in Vancouver, told the Times this afternoon it was still too soon to know how serious the power break would be.

"These things happen," he said. "It may be just a trifle. Then again, it may be serious."

Kitimat has been without power for more than 24 hours. The flow of electricity failed a few minutes before noon Wednesday.

A helicopter was pressed into immediate service to track down the break but was forced to return to its base by heavy clouds.

Causing concern to company officials in Vancouver are the huge smelting pots where the metal is kept in molten state.

It is not known yet whether auxiliary power has been capable of keeping the pots hot. It is understood auxiliary equipment was not in operation until 7:30 Wednesday night.

If the pots are allowed to cool, the aluminum will harden and will have to be chipped out before production can resume. It is this chipping of the "frozen" metal that would cause a two-week production break.

Telegraph and telephone lines connecting Kitimat with Vancouver failed Wednesday. Service was restored this morning but calls were late going through.

Tenders Due For Northern PGE Extension

First tenders for the northern extension of the PGE will be called "in a week or so," Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today.

The PGE construction committee announced late in 1954 that work on the first 65 miles of the northern extension, which will eventually carry the PGE from Prince George to Dawson Creek, will be under construction this spring.

The government will seek increased borrowing powers for the PGE at the current session of the legislature, to enable PGE extension work to "go ahead full blast," the premier said.

The premier also stated the federal government has not rejected his request for a 50-50 split on costs of the $10,000,000 southern extension.

"They haven't rejected our request, but there has been no action on it as yet," he said.

U.K. Ships Disappear In Icy Haze

HULL, England (AP)—Forty British seamen aboard two trawlers are feared lost off Iceland today, victims of the dread "black frost."

Twenty men were aboard each of the ships—the 810-ton Roderigo and the 559-ton Lorella—which sent out distress signals Wednesday night saying they were heeling over in a hurricane and snowstorm.

For several minutes distress signals poured from the trawlers' radios. Then there was silence.

(United Press reported today that USAAF rescue planes failed to find trace of the trawlers in radar searches through zero visibility yesterday and today. UP also said a third Hull trawler, the 498-ton Rosella, also sent out an SOS but later radioed it had recovered sea-way.)

"Black frost" is the seaman's name for clouds of icy haze which skim along the surface and wrap ships in a cocoon of spray which freezes hard. Unless the crew hack this ice away, its weight can turn a ship over.

COULDN'T ABANDON SHIP

The Lorella, in her last message, said she was lying on her side off Iceland's North Cape.

The Roderigo signalled from 90 miles north of the cape: "Listing heavily and going over."

A few minutes later came this last desperate message from the Roderigo: "Impossible abandon ship because of hurricane conditions and freezing temperatures."

Both vessels sailed from this northeast England fishing port, and anxious families of the seamen gathered at trawler headquarters to listen to messages from search ships.

Coast guardmen here feared the seamen probably met instant death when the trawlers heeled over.

15 Per Cent Increase In Oil Production

OTTAWA (BUP)—The flow of crude petroleum into the country's refineries rose 15.4 per cent in October and receipts from other countries went up 8 per cent, the Bureau of Statistics reports.

The month's output of refined products climbed 13.5 per cent and inventories at the end of the month were up 26 per cent.

Receipts of crude petroleum from all sources during October totaled 15,045,356 barrels as against 13,436,457 barrels a year earlier. Domestic sources accounted for 8,180,200 barrels last year versus 7,088,338 in 1953.

'LIMEY LIZZIE' TOLD 'STAY OUT' BY SCOTS

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—Unidentified persons plastered the words "Stay Out, Limey Lizzie" along a wall of the Queen's official Scottish home here during the night.

The words, in whitewash letters two feet high, stretched for 70 feet along a wall of historic Holyrood Palace.

Police believe extreme Scottish nationalists were responsible. The nationalists, who want home rule for Scotland, object to the Queen calling herself "Elizabeth the Second." They say she is only the first Elizabeth to rule over Scotland.

Sub-Zero Weather In East

Winnipeg Shivers In 25-Below

(Compiled from CP and BUP dispatches)

Western Ontario dug itself out of its worst snowstorm of the winter today as Winnipeg and Chicago chattered in sub-zero temperatures and numbing breezes.

Alberta was spared by the Arctic invasion, except along the Saskatchewan border, where 5 below zero prevailed. Edmonton was a "mild" 25 above.

Winnipeg recorded 25 below during the night and shivered in 17 below temperatures in mid-forenoon.

Coldest spot in the west was Brochet, in northwestern Manitoba, 43 below.

Zero temperatures—the year's coldest—are due in Toronto tonight. Daytime Toronto temperatures were 15 degrees below normal.

White River, in northwestern Ontario, was numbed by 30 below zero.

'Ah, Spring... You Wonderful Thing!'

Hanne Andersen, 2175 Lansdowne, is convinced spring has come to Victoria. Noon temperatures today hovered close to 50 with more of the same forecast.

Less balmy were sister cities of Winnipeg (25 below) Toronto (zero) London, Ont. (blizzard.)

1,000 Men In Hunt For Missing Boy

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Although hope is fading, the RCMP today sent nearly 1,000 volunteers out for the sixth day to look for six-year-old Howard Newell, missing since Saturday.

Doctors said Wednesday there was little chance the boy survived more than one or two of the freezing nights.

Howard went into the wood on Saturday with a group of companions led by his uncle, but was not with them when they emerged at noon. He had planned to take a short cut to his home at Little River, 10 miles from here.

The river that cuts through the search area has been dragged since Sunday.

Men from all stations of life in this area on the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia have turned out to search. Vagrants and professional men rub shoulders with laborers, farmers, fishermen and businessmen.

Search Launched for Kitimat Power Break

Trouble crews, equipped with snow shoes and two-way radios, braved cruel, winter weather and thick fog today in an effort to track down the break in the 50-mile Kemano-Kitimat power line which has left the giant Alumininum Company of Canada's Kitimat plant without electricity.

It was understood crews were dispatched from both ends of the line, which stretches through the treacherous Kildala Pass.

Although faced with the possibility of a two-week suspension in operations, George Vincent, company spokesman in Vancouver, told the Times this afternoon it was still too soon to know how serious the power break would be.

"These things happen," he said. "It may be just a trifle. Then again, it may be serious."

Kitimat has been without power for more than 24 hours. The flow of electricity failed a few minutes before noon Wednesday.

A helicopter was pressed into immediate service to track down the break but was forced to return to its base by heavy clouds.

Causing concern to company officials in Vancouver are the huge smelting pots where the metal is kept in molten state.

It is not known yet whether auxiliary power has been capable of keeping the pots hot. It is understood auxiliary equipment was not in operation until 7:30 Wednesday night.

If the pots are allowed to cool, the aluminum will harden and will have to be chipped out before production can resume. It is this chipping of the "frozen" metal that would cause a two-week production break.

UN May Hold Session Monday To Deal With Formosa Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Diplomatic sources said today the Security Council may be called into session next Monday to consider possible United Nations action to arrange a cease-fire in the China fighting.

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Red China's Ambassador to India called on Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today, prompting speculation that India is playing a key role in efforts to obtain a cease-fire in the danger-packed Formosan Strait.

Observers here were convinced India was being called upon to perform the sort of go-between duties she handled successfully in ending the Korean and Indo-China fighting.

It was believed Chinese Ambassador Yuan Chung Hsien discussed with Nehru the latest developments involving Formosa.

Tomorrow Nehru will leave for London and the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference. A top item on the agenda of that meeting will be the Formosan crisis.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today President Eisenhower would decide personally whether to use U.S. forces for purposes other than immediate self defense in protection of Formosa against the Communists.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in a statement that Eisenhower had made that clear at a conference with civilian and military defense officials.

Callin' fer night work an' short speeches, Mister Bennett evidently figgers that things'll run smoother if the boys sit oftener an' stand less.

Looks like even th' birds hev followed th' buds t' Victoria.

Canadian Workers Gain Other Benefits

TORONTO (CP)—The United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) today negotiated an Ontario-wide agreement with Ford Motor Company of Canada and ended a 109-day strike which started in Windsor Oct. 10 and spread to Ford plants at Oakville and Etobicoke.

The basis of agreement, announced about 3:40 p.m. and detailed in a joint statement at 4 p.m., provided a master contract to cover bargaining units of hourly-paid employees at the three plants.

MUST BE RATIFIED
The agreement must be ratified by membership meetings of employees before it becomes final. A union spokesman said these meetings will be arranged as soon as possible and the union negotiating committee will recommend ratification.

The company agreed to a wage increase of four cents an hour effective June 15. Basic wages in the previous contract, which expired Feb. 19, 1954, were $1.69 at Windsor and Oakville and $1.59 at Etobicoke.

Fringe benefits in the new contract include comprehensive hospital, medical and surgical benefits at company expense for employees and their families.

The union agreed to seniority revisions demanded on the company early in the negotiations. The agreement said such revisions will relieve the company of some of the cost and inefficiency of short-term layoffs.

There will be a modified union shop in which all new employees at the three establishments will have to become members of the union as a condition of employment, but present employees not already members are not required to join. All employees are subject to deduction of union dues from their pay cheques.

40 Seamen Feared Lost In 'Black Frost'

Ships Disappear In Iceland Haze

HULL, England (AP)—Forty British seamen aboard two trawlers are feared lost off Iceland today, victims of the dread "black frost."

Twenty men were aboard each of the ships—the 810-ton Roderigo and the 539-ton Lorella—which sent out distress signals Wednesday night saying they were heeling over in a hurricane and snowstorm.

For several minutes distress signals poured from the trawlers' radios. Then there was silence.

(United Press reported today that USAF rescue planes failed to find traces of the trawlers in radar searches through zero visibility yesterday and today. UP also said a third Hull trawler, the 498-ton Rosella, also sent out an SOS but later radioed it had recovered sea-way.)

"Black frost" is the seamen's name for clouds of icy haze which skim along the surface and wrap ships in a cocoon of spray which freezes hard. Unless the crew can hack this ice away, its weight can turn a ship over.

The Lorella, in her last message, said she was lying on her side off Iceland's North Cape.

The Roderigo signalled from 90 miles north of the cape: "Listing heavily and going over."

A few minutes later came this last desperate message from the Roderigo: "Impossible abandon ship because of hurricane conditions and freezing temperatures."

Coast guardsmen here feared the seamen probably met instant death when the trawlers heeled over.

NO PAY BOOST FOR MLAs BENNETT INDICATES

B.C.'s MLAs will have to do without a pay increase for this session at least, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

The premier told his press conference this morning he feels "poor people, those on low incomes, and the unemployed should have first call on purchasing power."

"The members all accepted their positions by choice," he said, "and at election time there always seems to be plenty of candidates for these positions."

MLA's circulated a petition suggesting a pay boost at the last session of the House, but nothing came of it.
